Public Service Commission Remains Unchanged As

HARRISBURG, May 23.—Although the legislature has yet to work through the final week of its present session, leaders of the assembly today cast up accounts of the five-month partisan struggle to see what it has accomplished.

They were unanimous in agreeing that no really important measure has yet reached the governor's desk, and almost unanimous in forecasting none will.

Nine of the 25 campaign pledges of the governor were based on his public utility theories and leaders today agreed that if he insists all measures designed to correct existent evils in the public service law carry a proviso empowering him to remove public service commissioners at will no such legislation will be approved in both houses.

Senate Adamant.
The senate apparently has made up its mind that the governor will not be empowered to remove commissioners at his pleasure. And unless the warring forces reach some sort of agreement in the feverish days of the closing week, the public service law will be unchanged from its form at the start of the session.
Such agreement, it was forecast, is extremely unlikely.

The administration rural road program bill, it is agreed, will pass the senate with no dissenting votes.
Yet, except as a gesture of "good farm politics", the program hasn't received much support from motorists of the state who will foot the bill. With it has come no indication of lesser liquid fuel tax or reduced motor license and drivers' li-

PA NEW OBSERVES

Out bright and early as usual to perform a patriotic duty, nearly 150 senior high "poppy girls" have taken a stand at the downtown street corners and places in the residential districts before most workers got started to the plant or office this morning. The local post Veterans of Foreign Wars sponsored it.

They wore straw hats yesterday, but today most everyone left them at home on the shelf.

There are hundreds of wild crabapple trees in the wooded sections surrounding the municipal golf links, which are now in full bloom and their sweet perfume can be traced for a considerable distance.

First news of the Army planes passing over the city yesterday was received at The News from the Terminal Trainmaster's office of the B. and O. At that time, the planes were directly overhead and the roar of their engines could be distinctly heard over the telephone.

Golfers and gardeners are having a tough time with the weather these days. Those who have their crops in the ground are reaping the benefit from the present wet weather.

The rains of the past few weeks have started the grass soon this spring on the municipal course, and a good catch has resulted. The wet weather has proven beneficial as it has kept the number on the course

Youthful Bank Bandits Taken

Young Bank Bandits Who Heldup Pontiac, Michigan Bank, Are Arrested

(International News Service)
TORONTO, Ont., May 23.—A sensational story of a $12,000 bank robbery in the states, after which the bandits escaped into Canada in a stolen airplane, was unfolded here today with the arrest of two youths.
Those taken into custody are Louis Kish, 21, student pilot and Adam Morgan, 20. Police declared they have admitted the holdup of the commercial and savings bank at Pontiac, Michigan yesterday. With their arrest, the loot was recovered.

Taken At Toronto
After holding six bank tellers at bay with leveled guns, the youths drove to a field near Pontiac where they had secreted a stolen airplane.
Forced down near Chatham, Ontario, the young bandits obtained a compartment on a fast Toronto train.
They were arrested on their arrival here after Chatham provincial police had wired a warning ahead.

Both Kish and Morgan talked freely of the robbery. The former declared he had taken flying lessons solely "with the Pontiac job in mind." Both stated it was their first venture in crime.

The stolen airplane was dragged from its hangar about three hours before the robbery. It was the property of Howard Hartung, well known Detroit flyer. The craft was found undamaged except for a blown tire.

Woman Hunted For Knowl-

paperman And Politician

MISSING SINCE
THURSDAY NIGHT

Reported That June Taylor, Supplied Murder Suspect With New Suit

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, May 22.—
With David H. Clark, former prosecutor charged with the murders of Charles H. Crawford, politician, and Herbert Spencer, editor, authorities today widened their search for a woman known as June Taylor, and an explanation of the web of politics, crime and publicity which caused the double killing.

June Taylor, missing since Thursday night when it became known that Clark was sought for questioning, was reported to have had a conference at San Quentin with Albert Marco, crime leader of Los Angeles, who is serving a sentence in the prison there. June Taylor, also known as Mrs. A. M. Donovan, was said to own the hotel which Marco used as headquarters before his conviction.

Woman Is Hunted.
Chief Investigator Matthews, working out of the district attorney's office said: "I feel confident that June Taylor can throw a light on Clark's whereabouts between Wednesday afternoon and Thursday night."

Police are especially anxious to discover if she supplied Clark with the suit he was wearing when surrendered, a grey one, whereas witnesses declare that the man who killed Crawford and Spencer wore a double-breasted blue suit.

Reasons for Crawford's private desk being rifled between the time of the shooting and the arrival of police also were being sought, as well as the person who did it. The shooting occurred Wednesday afternoon as Crawford and Spencer were seated in the former's private office in conference with Clark.

Relations Studied.
Crawford's relations with Editor Spencer were being studied as it was known that they once were bitter that will end at Rockview penitentiary where Monday morning both will be executed for the killing of four Glen Alden Coal Company workers in a pay-car dynamiting a year ago.

For an hour, before sheriff's deputies and state troopers led them from the Luzerne county prison, the doomed pair "kidded" each other about their approaching execution.
Jail attaches who watched and liswere "putting on an act" to mask

DR. C. B. WINGERD

Water services, in memory of those who lost their lives at sea during the Civil War, which will be held at the North Street bridge Sunday evening at 6:30, will be followed by the customary Memorial sermon which will be held in the Central Presbyterian church, with Dr. C. B.
Wingerd, the pastor, delivering the sermon.

Members of the various patriotic and ex-service organizations will assemble at the City Building prior to 6:30, at which time they will form in ranks and march to the North street bridge where the Water Services will be carried out under the direction of the Ladies of the Immediately following the marchers will re-form and will parade to the Central Presbyterian church, for the balance of the day's program.

It is expected that these services will be largely attended.

Poppy Day Is Being Observed

Hundreds Of High School Girls Brave Rain To Sell Memorial Emblems

Although the weather today is anything but desirable, there are hundreds of girls out on the streets, visiting the offices, stores and the homes of the city, selling Buddy Poppies in the annual observance by the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

These emblems of the battle fields of Flanders are sold each year by the Veterans of Foreign Wars as a means of raising funds for their relief program, both local and national.
The poppies being distributed are made in the veterans' hospitals throughout the country, by the disabled men, who receive a small amount from each poppy as a means of livelihood. One cent from the sale also goes to the National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., while the balance is used locally in the relief program among ex-service men who are ill and unemployed.
One hundred per cent of all funds raised are distributed by the V. F. W. in this manner, the money being kept in a separate fund which is touched only for relief work.

I hope when the French mayors return the visit and we put on a couple of robberies and maybe a murder during their meal that they will have the good common decency to ward their mother country to get right up and walk out, too.
Yours,

Memorial Service In Central Church Reminds A. R. Kerr Of Departure Of Local Soldiers Seventy Years Ago

Sunday night in the Central Presbyterian church there will be in attendance at the annual Memorial season Sunday religious service, A.
R. Kerr of North Beaver street, who on August 16 or 17, 70 years ago witnessed as a boy of 15 years, the departure of the members of 100th Pennsylvania volunteer infantry, better known as the Roundheads, for the battlefronts of Civil war,
from that very building.

And it was on this occasion, in the same building as the Memorial Sunday service is to be held, that Mr.
Kerr, then a boy, imbibed the patriotic fervor and enthusiasm that a few short months later resulted in his enlistment and departure for the front to join the same regiment.

Was Old White Hall.
Central Presbyterian church, as it is now known, was in those days known as White Hall and was the center of all public meetings and occasions of importance in the community. It is remarkable that after a lapse of 70 years there should be a man present, who heard in the same building, the words that inspired the young men of that famous organization to go out and do their utmost for their country.

Mr. Kerr, 85 years of age, then a lad of 15 years, had the desire to be one of the group, 880 strong, that left that day, without a question the largest single group of men that ever left this community at one time to participate in the battles of their country.

A. R. KERR

Recalls Scenes.
Yesterday in speaking of that wonderful day, Mr. Kerr recalled as if it had been but the day before.

the incidents that occurred, the martial music of the drum corps, the flying flags, the farewell, some-sad and some otherwise, the addresses that wished these youths of that day Godspeed and the immense throngs of people not only from New Castle and Lawrence county but from many adjoining counties.
Horses were the only medium of transportation and scores rode in on horseback or wagons to witness the occasion.

This group of young men ready to battle and die for their country, gathered at White Hall, now the Central Presbyterian church. The Rev. Robert Audley Browne, chaplain of the regiment for the greater period of its service, presided at the meeting held in the hall. Stirring addresses were made by Colonel Daniel Leasure, Andy Nelson of Harrisburg and Captain Sam Bentley of Company E. The latter was a local Methodist minister and his address was marked for the fervor that he put into it.

The men in civilian clothes left in wagons at approximately 10:30 a.
m. for Enon Valley. The then lad
A. R. Kerr was driver of one of the wagons. His wagon was a hay rigging type and 22 men were transported in it to Enon. Some sat on the sides, while two abreast sat on the floor of the wagon.
Others were picked up enroute to

Laws

Alexander Hartzell, who entered a plea to stealing chickens from W. A. Hoffmaster and a watch from Mrs. Annie Rippel of Mahoning township, was sentenced to serve from one to three years in the Allegheny county workhouse at sentence court held at the court house by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers this morning.

At the time of committing the thefts Hartzell was under parole from the Lawrence county court, having been convicted of perjury in connection with the obtaining of a marriage license.

George Agnew entered a plea to conspiracy to cheat and defraud and was given five months to the county jail, his sentence to date from April 14.

Youths Are Paroled.
Samuel DeVito and Frank Chutz, two young men about 19 years of age of Mahoning township, who were charged with malicious mischief in connection with tearing down rural mail boxes, were paroled upon the payment of fines of $25 each and costs.

Statements by their attorney showed that the young men have always borne good reputations and have never been in trouble before. It was claimed that the inclination to tear down mail boxes came after they had made a trip to Struthers, O. where they had been treated to some liquor. A statement from farmers whose mail boxes had been torn down showed that they have been repaired at the expense of the young men.

Drunken Drivers.
Peter P. Secker of Struthers, O., for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for three months motion for parole to be entertained at the end of 30 days if fine and costs are paid.

S. E. Brenneman, who was arrested after his car had hit another machine near the Ben Franklin junior high school, was fined $100 and costs and given four months to the county jail, petition for parole to be entertained at the end of two months.
Mr. Brenneman said he had been drinking some wine, but that he was never going to touch liquor again.

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 23.—Elsie Draves, sister of the slain Arlene, today contradicted part of the testimony given in the case for Virgil Kirkland, being tried a second time for causing his sweetheart's death at a Gary gin orgy.

Elsie, first rebuttal witness for the state, took the stand before Judge Grant Crumpacker immediately after the defense rested.

In resting, Kirkland's attorney abandoned hope of putting on the stand four champions of Kirkland's innocence, who, it had been hoped, would arrive here this morning from Dayton, O.

Zeke Oatmeal held his farm at $10,000, and he stuck to it even though he did want to sell it badly. But, strange to say, after casting about for a couple of years a customer did finally appear, willing to pay Zeke's price for the farm. His name was Sam Applebutter. Now Sam, while willing to pay the $10,000 desired something in the nature of terms. So an agreement was reached as follows: $2,000 was to be paid on the first of the coming August, the same amount was to be paid a year from that day, and the balance of $6,000 was to be paid in two equal payments each on the first of August for the following two years. And on his side, Zeke agreed that he would give Sam possession of the farm six months after the first payment had been made and a deed for the farm before the second payment became due.

Sam handed over $2,000 on August 1. Immediately Zeke gave Sam possession. Soon the second payment became due, but somehow Zeke had neglected to present the deed, and Sam refused to pay the $2,000. Zeke waited a while, and when it wasn't coming he sued.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN CENTRAL CHURCH

Enon Valley. At this place the entire group took the train for Pittsburgh, where they were uniformed and equipped. Additional men joined at that place. Then the regiment moved on by train to Washington, D. C.

The drum corps was in charge of the late D. I. Campbell. The late John Nicklin was drum major. And how the hearts of all and especially of the boy A. R. Kerr were stirred by the martial music that the corps produced.

A. R. Kerr at that time was but 15. His father was dead and his mother and he resided on the family farm at McCaslin, east of the city. His youth was not sufficient to prevent him from going with the regiment at the time, but his obligation to his mother was, but the inspiration of that great day was such that about a year and a half later, having passed his 16th birthday anniversary, he secured a man to take care of the farm, enlisted and away he went to war for the balance of the Civil war, joining Company E, 100th Pennsylvania (Roundhead) infantry.

And that's not all. He served with distinction and has real deeds of valor to his credit, which it takes some little persuasion to have him relate.

It is most fitting that the annual Memorial Sunday service on this 70th anniversary year should be held in the church, which was the scene of this memorable occasion.

HUNT WOMAN IN SLAYING OF TWO IN LOS ANGELES

enemies but had lately become reconciled. The part Crawford and Spencer had on Clark's defeat in a municipal judicial election was another angle being probed in the hunt for a motive.

June Taylor or "Mrs. A. M. Donovan" was accompanied to the penitentiary by Frank Carroll, Los Angeles business man. She was a close friend of Marcos both before and after the trial.

This was the first reported seen of her since she told friends Thursday she was going to a hospital for an operation.

Miss Taylor will also be quizzed about her bank accounts the investigators indicated, which are said to contain several large entries. One for $3,756 was made in the Bank of America in San Francisco, August 25, 1930, and another of $500 on December 23.

Clark Is Silent.
Clark maintained silence on the details of what took place at the "conference," which ended in two deaths. Possibility that he may not have had a hand in the shooting was seen in a rumor that Spencer had been trying to sell his magazine "The Critic of Critics" to Crawford for $25,000.

Meanwhile, Clark's name remained on the ballot for the June municipal election. If he should be elected over the incumbent, Judge Charles McCoy, he would be eligible to take office unless convicted of the murder. His indictment made no change in his status as a candidate. Clark was badly beaten in the May election at which time he was first supported and then opposed by Crawford and Spencer.

Follow Many Clues.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 23.—Authorities today delved into the ramifications of the murder of Charles Crawford, a power in Los Angeles political circles, and Herbert Spencer, veteran newspaper man.

The two men were shot to death in Crawford's private office, and David H. Clark, 33, candidate for municipal judge and former deputy district attorney here, has been formally charged with the double murder.

Clark, who voluntarily surrendered to the district attorney the day after the slayings, has declared that he would say nothing until he takes the witness stand in his own defense.

"There were three of us in that room," Clark stated, "but what happened I cannot say at this time."

Refuses To Talk.
Reports had it that Clark would reportedly claim self-defense and accuse Crawford of firing one of the three shots.

Clark today would not divulge whether Crawford fired one of the shots.

Four witnesses who placed Clark at the scene of the crime were held in technical custody.

What motive is behind the double murder has not been disclosed, but authorities were giving their attention to numerous angles.

Crawford and Spencer were believed to have been enemies. While Spencer was the city editor of a newspaper here, he sent to Seattle and obtained a history of Crawford's activities in the northwest and threatened to publish it.

Subsequently a political re-adjustment occurred and Crawford found himself in the same camp with Spencer, reports said. It was reported that Spencer had told friends that he held no grievances against Crawford, although the editor was said to have been aligning himself against Crawford's political friends.

Opposed Clark.
Authorities are now investigating a report that Crawford had been asked to purchase the magazine of which Spencer was managing editor for $25,000.

It has also been reported that Crawford was opposed to the candidacy of Clark for municipal judge.

Another of the many angles entering into the case brought the names of Albert Marco, Los Angeles vice baron now serving a term in San Quentin prison, and June Taylor, an important witness in his case, to the fore. Clark, who prosecuted Marco, was said to have become friendly with Miss Taylor, and it was reported that Spencer and Crawford, both supporters of Judge McCoy, planned to use this situation to compel Clark to withdraw from the run-off election.

Authorities here are anxious to get in touch with Miss Taylor, who was reported to have visited San Quentin prison yesterday and to have had a long talk with Marco.

Employees of the various industrial plants were among those who got a glimpse of the airplanes passing over the city. The number counted by the different persons varied, two having the same count. Some argued that there were as many as 75 in the two groups which flew over the city. The correct number is believed to have been 46, however.

A report came in that Loy Brown of North Beaver street, while en route to his work early Thursday morning, he saw a young fawn strolling the street near his home. He watched it for awhile, and states the tame creature went over into Clemmore boulevard. Seemed to be unafraid of any disturbances near.

STAR LORE
FOR NEW RECRUITS IN STAR GAZING

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
The author of Star Lore is happy to be of assistance to the many new star gazers constantly coming to the front, who would like some help in getting acquainted with the stars.

June has its charms of evening sky: Along the path of the zodiac looking west to the west is constellation Leo—locate the large, beautiful sickle in Leo. Eastward from Leo is constellation Virgo containing the bright white star Spica; next eastward is Libra, its two most prominent stars forming the pans of the balances; a little farther to the east is Scorpius, a large commanding constellation. An easily procured star map for beginners should be used in locating the stars.

cess fees. To secure funds necessary to make a start on the rural road program, the administration abandoned its campaign promise of reductions of the later fees, with the result that ten or ten million dollars in promised savings to motor car owners will go to building rural roads.

Police Bill Doomed.
Present indications point to no change in legislation affecting the industrial police. The governor saw his bill to change the industrial police system kicked to bits in the usually well-controlled house. And the senate has shown no disposition of allowing Rep. M. A. Musmanno, Allegheny, to guide both houses in remedying the present law. His coal and iron police bill will not pass the senate in the shape he wants it.

Politics will, it is expected, prevent any agreement on a bill for congressional reapportionment and Pennsylvania's delegation in the next congress may be elected at large. The governor seems satisfied that no bill be passed at this session for redistricting and that an election at large be held.

Quota of so-called "election reform" bills passed at this session will be smaller than usual and the proposed state election code seems slated for oblivion in its present form.

Appropriations Passed.
Passage of the general appropriation bill is generally hailed as an accomplishment, but without it no department of the government could function. Its importance is precisely that of the man carrying the payroll.

Legislative leaders are agreed there will be no tax reductions at this session. A drive has been made for repeal of the mercantile tax, but its failure is agreed upon.

The legislature has passed, and the governor signed, the bill changing gas tax collections from retailers to distributors. A measure its supporters predict will save the state several millions in fuel tax collections. Some 26,000 retailers will get a rude shock, however, when the law becomes operative June 1. Formerly, a dealer was allowed two per cent of his tax for spillage and wastage accompanying handling of gasoline.

Under the new law he will pay tax not on all gasoline actually sold but on that spilled, evaporated or wasted as well. The new law gives only distributors the two per cent allowance.

For several recent sessions, the cry of the average citizen to the legislature has been:
"We need less laws, not more."
This session, it is indicated, he will get his wish.

pocket. He held the coins a moment, tossed them on the floor. "I guess I won't need that," he said.

Then he suggested to Szachewicz that they toss a coin to see which would go to the death chair first. Szachewicz declined, pointing out Nafus had thrown his money away. "Pick it up," he urged, "you may want it."

But Nafus refused. "Leave it for the sweepers," he said.

"I hope I go to the chair first, anyway," continued Nafus. "If I ever see that map of yours after they take you out of the chair I'll drop dead. What a fine looking corpse you'll make."

Nafus "willed" his clothes to a fellow prisoner. Czachewicz had nothing to leave. In a formal statement, the latter denied his guilt for the murder and added, "I'm not afraid to die and we'll go to the chair like men."

Nafus, in place of a statement, produced a poem which read, in part:

"On the 13th day of January in 1929 That was the day the four men were killed in the Glenn Alden mine. I never shall forget that day until the end of time . . .

I know we're drifting far apart and never more to roam. So let bygones be bygones and tell my wife and children I'm never coming home. . . ."

Nafus, body, relatives said, will be returned here for burial after the execution. No word has been received from relatives of "Big Joe" at Jersey City, N. J. Nafus' wife, children and sister paid him a last visit last night but Czachewicz had no callers.

The pair were condemned to death following their conviction of the dynamiting of a Glen Alden pay-car, in which four men were blown to bits on January 13, 1930. Long litigation in county and supreme courts and an appeal to the pardon board failed to reverse or commute their sentence and their fate was sealed here this week when the county court refused a new trial after the state supreme court ordered a judicial review of new evidence said to have been uncovered since the original sentence was imposed.

OUR POSSIBLE CONGRESSIONAL PLIGHT

FROM the standpoint of the 26th congressional district, comprising Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties, it is to be sincerely hoped that the Spangler Bill now before the General Assembly is never approved. Under the terms of it, Mercer county would be added to this already large district, and the 26th district would contain approximately 427,000.

Further, it is to be hoped that the state senate will not concur in the house amendments to the McClure congressional apportionment bill. Representative Spangler had this bill amended, making the 26th district the same as it is in his own bill.

The present status of congressional apportionment is that the matter will be referred to a conference committee in the coming week and out of this committee is hoped to come some reasonable apportionment legislation.

Under the 1930 census Pennsylvania loses two of its 36 congressmen. The quota is approximately 283,000 people for each congressman. Lawrence, Butler and Beaver counties together have nearly 327,000, more than their share. To add Mercer county to this district would be ridiculous. Actually, the Spangler bill is nothing more than an old fashioned Gerrymander which would kill off two congressmen from the independent western counties, and hold the controlled organization counties in the east, practically intact.

If the General Assembly insists upon passing a Gerrymander then it is to be hoped that Governor Pinchot will veto it. This might necessitate a special session for proper congressional apportionment, or it might mean electing our next congressional delegation and national delegate at-large. Even this price is not too much to pay if out of it will come an apportionment that will be fair and equitable.

RENO'S "BONANZA" FADES

Apparently the wholesale divorce plan is not working altogether well at Reno. There is complaint that the reduction of the necessary period of residence is taking money out of the city. People may come in greater numbers, but they do not stay as long, and what they spend is less by so much.

The lawyers' fees may multiply, but the rest of the community is getting a smaller dividend than it anticipated. It is difficult to feel any great sympathy with people who looked for prosperity by outraging the moral sense. There is good authority for holding that the wages of sin are not satisfying.

COLLEGES AND STYLES

In the minds of many persons there seems to be some doubt that universities are leaders in thought, but, if the universities have not succeeded in dispelling that doubt, they are leaving no skepticism concerning their leadership in the sartorial arts.

Cambridge University fathered the sloppy and disreputable attire of the collegians. The Yale undergraduate with long hair, heavy turtleneck sweater and bulldog on a leash was a contemporary of the Gibson girl. Fair Harvard started the unlatched golf bag fad.

Clinching the argument is the verdict of a manufacturer that the styles for male attire in the United States are set, not on Fifth Avenue nor in Paris or London, but on the campus of Princeton University.

Thus do universities extend their leadership to new fields. Some pioneer in science, others in philosophy, others on the gridiron and others in politics and revolutions. Spain's revolution and republican government were spawned in the mental and emotional reservoirs of the University of Madrid, so it is within the university tradition for the Princeton tiger to set the pace for the well-dressed man.

BOOK DEMAND GROWS DESPITE RADIO

The booksellers' may be interested in an announcement from the Federal Office of Education at Washington which reveals with some solemnity that the development of the radio has not diminished the demand for books. Library statistics are cited to prove a great increase in circulation of volumes for 1929 compared with 1923. Since this covers the period of radio expansion, the inference follows:

The statement implies a hypothesis, now discredited, that a program broadcast on the air could prove an adequate substitute for the pleasure and necessity of reading a book. But one must not press coincidences too far. Personal observation, unfortunately lacking confirmatory data, suggests that pea shooters are not so common today in the hands of urchins on the street as when the present generation was in its boyhood. One hesitates to conclude, however, that the pastime has been outmoded by the growth of the radio or by the superior appeal of literature.

Standing Before A Tree
More Than Three Centuries
Old
A Symbol of Victory?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

It seems sort of silly to admit it, but I'm sentimental about trees. I want to reach out and pat them as I pass. Not to encourage them—they need no encouragement from me. Not to praise them—how can they use my praise? But just because I like them and respect them . . .

When I'm with a tree I think I understand why the ancient Druids worshiped trees and why there are so many stories in the myths of frightened, fleeing human beings who were turned into trees by the gods.

I went to a flower show, expecting to enjoy it for fifteen minutes and then be bored for an hour. I saw a red rose, a blue iris, a lavender orchid and I was interested. I saw a delicate blue poppy from India that had never blossomed in this land before and I was properly impressed . . . Then I came upon a tree and all the charm and shapeliness and perfume of the flowers fell away and were forgotten. They were for the day or for the season—this tree that stood before me was for the years and years.

It was a Japanese maple. The sign said it was more than 350 years old. It had been in the same family of Japanese nurserymen for all those centuries. It lived in a tub. It was dwarfed . . . But there it grew in beauty, ten or twelve feet tall, with a sturdy thick trunk and a mass of delicate green that quivered lightly in even that still air. It was born before the Mayflower crossed the Atlantic to America; it had been cut and pruned and cramped for centuries but it breathed as sweetly as if it had never known any restriction and had lived its long life in the wild competition of a forest.

To a man, standing there in front of it, it seemed like a symbol of victory. And, looking at it, I could not keep people out of my mind—people who say their lives are "dwarfed" by fate and cramped by responsibility and limited by the fact that their dreams are so much greater than their powers.

The tree, minding its own business, dwined in a tub, had not died sulkily beneath the pruning shears, but had shaped itself into beauty. Hundreds of times through the centuries it had brought its leaves forth and seen them drop away and it was not yet tired . . . And many an old man, dying, had said to his eldest son, "Guard the maple! Keep it growing!" They thought, each of them, that they were protecting their tree . . . but the tree, I think, was protecting its gardeners from littleness and pessimism and despair.

I have heard no sermon from human lips as powerful as that still green tree growing in a tub at a flower show. Have you?

"Why do you sigh?" said I, "today. Since all is well with you? You walk a smooth, untroubled way. No task is yours to do."

"You've come to settle every need. Your comfort is secure. What grief then causes you to plead? What woe must you endure?"

All's well with you beyond a doubt! Your skies are wondrous fair. You should gaily hearted walk about. But still a frown you wear."

"All right, don't depend on me. 'Tis true I should be glad. But how can I be gay?" said he. "When friends of mine are sad?"

"Can I go smiling while they sigh. Because no pain I feel. And can I blithely shut my eyes. To woe their eyes reveal?"

"Until this earthly journey ends. From care I'm never free. The grief which falls upon my friends. Must also fall on me."

Sometimes you wonder why you are not selected to serve on committees.

Particularly in the organizations of which you are a member. You ask yourself why you are not elected to office in your church or the lodge to which you belong.

Perhaps it is because you are not sufficiently interested in anything to give freely of your time and thought without some financial remuneration.

You have never given the time to make yourself letter perfect in the service of your organization which would have meant serious study.

Little errors do not annoy you—you think it foolish to be so particular.

You cannot understand why others seem so in earnest in the work.

You would be willing to go through with it in a perfunctory manner with little consideration on your part as to its solemnity.

And if this is your attitude, no wonder you are not picked out to carry on the work of the societies to which you belong.

If you accept a position of this sort you should be willing and anxious to give your best to carry out your part as is expected of you and that means spirit and letter perfect.

If you are unwilling to do this, don't complain because others are given the honors.

You're Right—Pullman records shows that the lower classes usually sleep in upper berths.

Function Of Old Army Posts Debated As Hoover Confers

Local Pride And Political Influence Believed By Country To Be Large Factors In Treatment Of President's Economy Efforts

Many of the old army posts, relics of the Indian fighting days, are being left by the public to be a cause of useless expense. In the discussion of the Hoover economy plans, however, it is recognized that local pride and political influence are factors in the ultimate results. Similar useless plants are seen under naval jurisdiction. It is believed that consolidation of military units will be conducive to greater efficiency.

In the conference on economy held by President Hoover at the Rapidan camp, the BIRMINGHAM NEWS sees "a sign of administration health well worth observing," and that paper holds that "perhaps something will come of this policy of retrenchment." The KALAMAZOO GAZETTE recognizes that "the administration, faced with serious shrinkage in revenues, is determined to meet the problem in the good, old-fashioned way." The BALTIMORE SUN remarks that "it may accomplish something while waiting for the army, and it may also create a precedent in favor of abandoning some of the useless yards and shore stations with which the navy has more or less been burdened." The SUN advises that "reorganization of those stations promises even more in the way of economy than the plan that is under consideration for the army."

"Everybody knows," declares the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, "that these forts, scattered around the country, are mere relics of the time when small detachments of government troops were necessary to keep the Indians tractable and that their only usefulness for many years has been to benefit congressmen by securing appropriations to be expended in their districts." The TEXARKANA GAZETTE believes that the posts "serve no purpose except to detach government money and put government money in circulation," but adds that "it will be a hard blow to many towns to lose their army posts, especially the smaller towns where the army establishment is the major industry." It agrees that "in the interest of efficiency and economy, the posts must be abolished."

"The decision to cut down the number of posts is apparently a sound one," says the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION, while the PLINT DAILY JOURNAL remarks that "some of the previously favored showmanship may be removed from military organizations, but the savings in dollars and cents will be more appreciated by taxpayers who keep a 'weather eye' on government costs." The ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH comments: "The truth of the matter is that many army posts should have been abandoned long ago. There was a time forts along the receding Indian frontier had strategic value, but it has long since passed. The people should no longer be taxed to keep them up for the sake of makeshift army assignments. Whether or not the matter can be explained in terms of political expedience, the fact remains that the war department contemplates no reduction in rivers and harbors work. Such discrimination is praise-worthy and warrants faith in the whole program." The WALLA WALLA BULLETIN contends that "there are plenty of corners which can be rounded off without lessening the effectiveness of our forces."

Recalling parallel efforts in the navy, the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS asserts that "a spendthrift congress was apparently more interested in building fences in the districts of individual congressmen than in naval economy." The NEW YORK SUN suggests that "it is odd that a desire for economy should promise to accomplish what a desire for efficiency has never been able to effect," and explains the situation as it sees it: "Army officers have known how the assignment of the real duty to political stations has interfered with the program of training. Members of congress have known it, too, but most of them have pretended not to. Part of the duty of the regular army is to provide instruction for the National Guard and for various civilian and reserve groups. Execution of that duty requires that a large number of officers and enlisted men be kept on detached service. The effect of scattering over a hundred garrisons that part of the army ordinarily available for the equally important job of attaining a high degree of professional skill has been to ask staff officers to think in terms of the squad and the Indian campaign. If economy happens to lead where common sense has pointed for many years, then blessed be economy!"

"In his sudden zeal for retrenchment," according to the ATLANTA JOURNAL, "President Hoover seems to have taken his cue from the man in the proverb who hurried to lock the stable door after the horse was out. If he had been as much concerned when appropriations were being made last winter as he is now when the treasury is threatened with a deficit of a billion dollars, he would have less cause for worry. But he then asked for 27 millions more than congress actually authorized. . . . A deficit amounting to more than the cost of running the government before the war is a matter of national concern. Can it be possible that the president has just become aware of the distressing condition of our treasury? Why has he delayed this alleged effort on the part of his administration to reduce expenditures until it is too late to prove really effective?"

Navy economy is viewed as possible by the ST. JOSEPH GAZETTE, while the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE and the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL emphasize political obstacles to economy, and the SAN

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

OUT OF THE WOODS
It was a big room. It was a big table. They were big men—fifteen of them, gathered there for a directors' meeting of a large and prosperous company.

Most of them were long, long faces. The meeting was called to order. One after another they got up and voiced their dire predictions. Business was going to the dogs—that was sure.

Finally, a keen-eyed chap at one end of the table arose, a little impatiently.

"Gentlemen," he said, "if you will pardon the expression, you fellows, with your talk of business going to the dogs, gives me a pain. I want you to answer just one question: How far can a dog run into the woods?"

The chairman looked nonplussed, searched the quizzical faces of his associates, and was about to administer a reproof when the speaker resumed:

"The answer is just this, gentlemen: When a dog has run half way into the woods, from then on he is running out."

Bible Thought For Today

LOVE WINS—Charity never faileth but whether there be prophecies they shall fail: whether there be tongues, they shall cease: whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.—1 Cor. 13:8-10.

PRAYER—Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the possession here on earth, of love.

McKelvie's Wheat Plan Is Approved

American Delegate To Wheat Conference Offers Plan To Alleviate Situation

COMMITTEE WILL STUDY PROPOSAL

(International News Service) LONDON, May 23.—An 11th hour victory for the United States in its suggested method of alleviating the world crisis arising from surplus wheat crops was recorded at the adjournment of the international wheat conference here today.

A standing committee was appointed to consider, among other things, the curtailment of production areas, which was the means suggested by Samuel R. McKelvie, chief American delegate, as a solution to the problem.

According to an official communiqué issued after the adjournment, members of the committee "will consider where it is possible to reduce the area of production, and where it should be undertaken."

Inclusion of this point in the recommendations of the conference caused some surprise, as McKelvie's proposals were vigorously condemned by the Soviet Russian delegates and aroused little enthusiasm among representatives from the Balkan countries.

Two Objectives. The standing committee will have two chief objectives. One will be to "establish a permanent clearing house of information" for wheat growers throughout the world. The second will be preparation of a draft agenda for future conferences.

Members of the committee will be chosen by the respective governments and proceed immediately with plans for another international meeting.

The committee, according to the communiqué, also will give particular attention to the following:

- 1—Examination of the general depression throughout the world.
- 2—The fact that more wheat is being produced than can be sold profitably.
- 3—The requirements of the various wheat importing countries.
- 4—The state of the wheat market throughout the world.

Opinions Differ. Although a diversity of conflicting opinions precluded the possibility of the conference presenting a single definite formula for solution of the crisis, Chairman Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner, declared that the deliberations had "resulted in unanimity on very important lines."

"Among these," he told the press, "was the decision to install a committee to continue the useful happy contacts created here."

"My belief is that the conference has established the principle of international co-operation among the wheat growing and food producing countries. It is hoped that further conferences will be held from time to time in the future."

"From the American point of view," McKelvie told International News Service, "the conference was entirely satisfactory."

"We achieved more than we expected to, particularly the recommendation to consider possible reduction of the growing area."

Lay 27 Miles Of Rails On P. R. R. Lines Thru Here

Six Weeks' Work On E. & A. Right-Of-Ways Completed Friday

With their Erie & Ashtabula division rail-laying program completed, the 90 workmen who composed the Pennsylvania railroad's central region track replacing crew, busy on local branch lines since April 7, left yesterday for their homes for a week-end visit before returning to duty on another division Monday.

The New Castle-Erie branch line improvements, covering a total distance of 27 miles were finished Friday. A short time before a brief period was spent on the E. & A.'s low-grade line, Wampum to New Brighton.

It is announced that the rail laying train will return to Pittsburgh for repair jobs along the main line tracks.

With the completion of the local job, heavier freight trains can now be run over the Lake Erie line for the 100-pound rails. Officials say the heavier tracks will allow for a considerable increase in freight haulings to and from lake points.

Two rail-laying trains such as the one that ended its job here yesterday are kept in regular service chiefly to maintain the central region tracks. The other has been in service on the Buffalo division. Each is equipped with derricks for handling the rail, unloading, lifting into place and loading the old rail for removal.

Employment to local furloughed men was given to over 15 railroaders while the track-replacing work continued, it was said.

Register for Camp

R. L. Meermans announces that 38 boys have already registered for the season of the Fred L. Rentz Y. M. C. A. camp. This season will find numerous improvements and other features that will prove a delight to the boys who attend.

Hold Indoor Hike

Inclement weather today caused 55 boys who otherwise would have taken a hike outdoors to hold periods in the gym and pool. The boys were from the midget and junior B's. During the morning, while it rained outside, the boys took part in a candy hunt and following the exercises were guests of the association at a real "feed".

Still Need Books

More books are desired by the Y. M. C. A. If you have old books of adventure that have been passed down the years, send them to the association, where they will be read eagerly. The books will be used in the boys' work department in the winter and in the summer will be taken to camp.

Underprivileged Boys

Plans of the association during the camping season this year call for increased activity among boys of the underprivileged class. R. L. Meermans says that about 60 boys of this class will be taken to the Rentz camp free as guests of the association and various civic organizations.

OLD DIRECTORS FOR CHAMBER ARE RENAMED

S. McKee and T. F. Higgins, met in the board room of the chamber at 3:15 Friday afternoon to count the ballots and declare the results.

Full Directorate.

The full directorate of the Chamber of Commerce now consists of the following:—

Hon. James A. Chambers, W. W. Duff, P. J. Flaherty, L. G. Genking, T. H. Hartman, A. C. Hoyt, John H. Lamb, James K. Love, W. F. Moody, W. J. Offutt, David S. Pyle, Fred L. Rentz, James M. Smith, Sr., Thomas W. Dickey, H. B. Richards, Hon. George T. Weingartner, H. L. Gordon and R. J. Tully.

Re-organization of the board will take place on June 1, when the directors will assemble and select new officers for the coming year.

A deep interest in the affairs of the Chamber of Commerce was evidenced by the heavy vote polled in both the primary and final elections, and the constructive work of the organization is receiving the well deserved support of the business interests and citizens of our city and community. The valuable assistance rendered in securing favorable legislation in the construction of the Pymatuning Dam, and the progress being made to secure slack-water navigation for New Castle and other cities located in the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango valleys, has made the Chamber of Commerce a most valuable organization.

The securing of these advantages will, without question, revive business conditions in this district and place the manufacturing interests in a position to meet competition from other districts more favorably located.

The continued support of the citizens and business interests of this city and community is requested for the directors of the organization, that the constructive work of the Chamber may be continued and the business interests of the community be advanced.

WEATHER DELAYS AIR ATTACK ON NEW YORK CITY

days of maneuvers have adhered strictly to the rule landlocking the air cavalcade in bad weather. They would hate to abandon the New York show, but on the other hand would ponder seriously the business of sending more than half a thousand planes roaring down New York's long waterfront, nose to tail at a hundred mile an hour clip, under weather conditions other than ideal.

Sunny skies, however, will bring the spectacle of virtually the entire American air corps streaking down sky trails to smash with the largest single air unit in history a projected enemy attack on the nerve center of the nation.

Cascade Park Opening Today

New Trial Is Refused Brady

Court Hands Down Opinions In Price, Laritza And J. W. Offutt Cases

In an opinion handed down by Judge Chambers at court today a new trial was refused S. D. Brady, who was convicted of fraudulent conversion in connection with the financing of some automobile sales in which the Central Acceptance company was interested.

In the case of Vivian Price against the Mutual Life Insurance Company of Baltimore, statement of claim is stricken off, and plaintiff is permitted to file a new statement of claim within fifteen days. The case grows out of an attempt to collect an insurance policy on the life of Ruth Price, in which it was claimed that there were irregularities on the part of an agent who wrote up the policy.

Motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was refused in the case of Mary Laritza against the Pennsylvania Power Company. Mrs. Laritza secured a verdict for $2900 for the death of her husband who was killed by the falling of an electric wire during a high windstorm at Ellwood City. The decision means that the verdict stands.

In the case of John W. Offutt against Ernest L. Stitzinger and Vernah Stitzinger, executors of G. G. Stitzinger, questions of law raised by plaintiff are decided against the plaintiff, but he is permitted to make reply as to the merits of the counterclaim. The case is one growing out of the purchase of land in Florida in which Offutt and the Stitzingers were interested. A similar order is made in the case of Dr. H. B. Anderson against the same defendants, the case growing out of the sale realty transaction.

Exiled Indian Relates Story Of His Wealth

Ira Pace, Full-Blooded Cherokee Indian Claims To Be Worth Twenty Million

WAS EXILED FOR SECRET MARRIAGE

(International News Service)
CHESTER, Pa., May 23—Residents here are recounting an "Indian story" of recent vintage with which a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, claiming to be a millionaire in his own right, regaled listeners, before borrowing enough money to continue his wanderings.

Ira Pace the Indian called himself, and fantastic was his story. And like many another, it all started with a woman.

Pace, he told auditors, married secretly, against the wishes of the chief of his tribe. He was wealthy, being owner of lands on which vast quantities of oil was found. But the chief was irate at his marriage and threatened to scalp him.

Doomed To Exile
Desiring his hair intact, Pace fled the reservation, taking with him $10,000. The tribe doomed him to exile for a dozen years for disobeying the chief, according to the tale.

He went to Pittsburgh, settled, made acquaintance among whites and loaned one of them $6,000, the Indian then told. But before it could be repaid, the acquaintance died. The rest of the ten thousand went in ways unexplained.

Pace is a wanderer, he claimed, but in ten years he may return to his reservation and claim a fortune of $20,000,000 in oil royalties accumulating for him. Meantime, he would appreciate a little financial assistance.

"Maybe he's right; maybe not," commented listeners as they dug down for small coins.

"Anyway, it's a good story and he sticks to it."

Chicago Woman Is Arrested, Admits Insurance Payment

Coroner's Chemist Examines Bodies Of Two Who Died In Woman's Home

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, May 23—Awaiting report of a coroner's chemist on the cause of the deaths of her orphan nephew and her husband, Mrs. Margaret Summers, today was under arrest, after admitting, that she collected life insurance on five persons who died in her home.

Dr. Clarence Muehlberger was to make his report today on causes of the death of Thomas Meyer, 17, and Thomas Summers, 37. If poison is found to have been present in the bodies of these two men, the bodies of the others may be exhumed for examination.

Besides the insurance, which amounted to $6,700, another possible motive, jealousy, was being considered.

Rev. G. M. Landis Continues Series

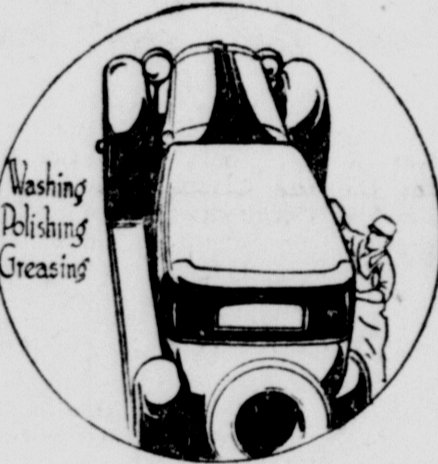

The widespread interest in the Book of Revelation was demonstrated last Sunday night by the large attendance at the First Baptist church, where the pastor G. M. Landis, began a series of Sunday evening sermons on the last book of the Bible.

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" will be the main subject on Sunday evening. The four riders of these symbolic horses have been the subject of many wild and weird interpretations. An effort will be made to present a simple, sane and scriptural exposition of this interesting subject. Another theme which will be introduced is the perplexing question as to "who are the 144,000 sealed" in the seventh chapter of Revelation.

A spiritual song service with special musical features marks the beginning of these evening services.

East Liverpool Visitors Coming

Will Be Guests Of P. H. C. On Wednesday Evening, May 27

Being a versatile man and capable of accomplishing many objects besides being a splendid official, District Deputy Walter W. Schroeder, New Castle Circle No. 5 Protected Home Circle is to be congratulated upon his successful effort, in securing for the Circle a group of thirty gentlemen from East Liverpool, O., who will be the guests of the local Circle and their friends on Wednesday evening, May 27. Extensive arrangements are now in progress to make welcome these "Jubilee entertainers" widely known, who enjoy a reputation that brings many invitations for their delightful evenings of entertainment. Along the line of minstrelsy with Dave Parsons as introductor it would be difficult to find a better cast. Premier end men, Clyde Parsons, David Stoffel with Earl Singer and Arnold Densmore, keep the audience in a constant roar of laughter, while the feature lyric tenors, Len Colman and Bert McKeone, decided to be the best in the Ohio Valley will delight their listeners while listening to the strains of their sweet voices.

As a special attraction this famous group will add the merry mixers, string and vocal trio, who are regular radio features. As an accompanist perhaps no better artist could have been added than Ralph Mullen, who can almost make a piano speak. There will be a brief business session called for seven thirty o'clock (D. S. T.) and at eight o'clock the doors will be opened to the public. There will be no admission charged for the splendid lengthy entertainment.

Quartet Plans For Busy Week

The Book-Leyde quartet, a group of young men who have been pleasing many audiences about the city with their vocal numbers, have a busy time planned for next week. Monday evening they will sing for the Highland United Presbyterian church Sabbath School Association in the home of J. G. Blim, 321 Norwood avenue. Tuesday evening they will sing at New Wilmington; Wednesday evening they will appear before the Men's Club of Trinity church.

This group of young men, Ted Strittmater, Willard McCown, David Jones and Trevor West, have been under the tutelage of Donald Cameron, assistant instructor of voice at the conservatory of music in Westminster College, the past six months, but will have to discontinue this instruction for the summer months, as Mr. Cameron leaves shortly for State College, where he is an instructor in the summer school.

More than a hundred people including a large group of visitors from Baldwin Camp and Auxiliary of Youngstown, O., were in attendance last evening at the dinner and social session held in the Sons of Union Veterans Hall, City Building, by Oscar L. Jackson Camp and auxiliary.

Members of Baldwin Camp and Auxiliary, Sons of Union Veterans of Youngstown, to the number of thirty-seven were in attendance and the affair was one of the most successful held in a long time.

The dinner was served in the early evening by the committee of the auxiliary to Oscar L. Jackson Camp. The tables were most attractive in a color scheme of pink and white, which was augmented with spring flowers and flags.

Following the dinner, a program was put on by a group of local Sons of Union Veterans and its auxiliary and assisting artists, which proved most enjoyable. This included a toe dancing number by Miss Dorothy Jackson and a Mock Wedding put on in excellent shape.

Those participating in the Mock

Jackson Camp No. 249, Sons of Union Veterans, Mrs. Ida Ashton; chair-lady, Mrs. Pearl Foster, Mrs. Levada Robinson, Mrs. Helen Harlan and Mrs. Hazel Schertrom, Oscar L. (International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 23—Three inmates of the state penal institution today were rejoicing over action of the state pardon board, which last evening dealt out commutations of sentence or pardons to them after an executive session earlier this week.

The board commuted the sentence of Joseph Cauffiel, former mayor of Johnstown, O., who had served 17 months of a two years sentence in Cambria county prison on charges of conspiracy and malfeasance in office. Cauffiel, who was removed from office and sentenced in 1929 will be released at a date to be fixed by Cambria county authorities, under the new parole rules of the board. His minimum jail sentence was commuted by action of the governor, but the former mayor will be on parole for a year after his release.

Jones Pardoned
A pardon was also issued to Wilfred L. Jones, former Luzerne county solicitor who was convicted of charge of arson in Wayne county in connection with burning of a glass factory in an alleged insurance collection plot.

Plan Advanced Giving President Control Of Prices In Time Of War

War Policies Commission Looks With Favor On Plan By Bernard Baruch

Universal Stabilization Of Price Would Be Declared Upon Entrance Into War

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The war policies commission, charged by Congress with drafting a program for utilizing all industry, commerce and man power in America's next war, looked with favor today on the plan of Bernard Baruch, New York capitalist, to empower the president to stabilize all prices in time of hostilities.

Baruch presented the commission with the draft of a bill giving the president power to proclaim an universal stabilization of price immediately after a declaration of war. The effect would be to "freeze" prices at that level, making it illegal to buy or sell commodities or service thereafter, real estate alone excepted, above that "fair market value." It would apply similarly to wages.

The development of opposition on the commission toward plans calling for the drafting of all industry and property reflection favor for Baruch's plan. It was pointed out that even that American Legion has been unable to get its Universal Draft Bill through Congress, because of opposition to its provisions calling for the drafting of property. Baruch's plan would reach industry and commerce, by preventing the usual wartime profits.

PYMATUNING WORK NEARER

Expect To Ask For Bids In Less Than Month, Is Current Report

GREENVILLE May 23.—Less than a month is expected to elapse before bids are asked for the construction of the Pymatuning dam, recently made possible by the final approval of an appropriation for $1,500,000, according to the unofficial views of engineers of the Department of Forest and Waters.

Preparations are now being made to advertise for bids for the work, and as soon as final details and the legal requirements have been taken care of, the bids will be sought and contracts awarded.

It is not officially known yet whether the entire job will be given in a lump contract, or whether sub-divisions of the work will be made, although the latter course is favored by observers.

Some concern is felt over the possible loss of an unexpended appropriation for $195,000, which will be void unless used by June 30, the end of the fiscal year in which the appropriation was made. A move to re-appropriate that amount has not made much progress, and it was expressed by Fred T. Fruit, Sharon, secretary of the Shenango-Beaver Conservation association that it was unlikely to be saved.

Little apprehension has resulted from this possibility, however, since it is generally believed that all possible funds which can be used during the biennium have been made available by the recent appropriation. Since the reservoir will be slow in filling, the road changes are expected to be held until the next biennium, when additional funds can be available.

Students Of Mahoning Give Excellent Performance At Event At School

Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward As Gathered By Reporters

One of the finest demonstrations of musical talent ever given in a New Castle school was that of Friday night when 125 students of Mahoning school presented their annual concert.

During the past number of years the Mahoning school vocal and instrumental departments have won marked notice by their work and some of the finest musicians the New Castle senior high school has ever had, received their early training at Mahoning.

Last night's concert accentuates all previous records. It was so. The band, orchestra and chorus in perfect trim and they played and sang like never before.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

The passing of the use of the street car line to Cascade park by the way of Hamilton street and Big Run creek valley in the past few years leaves the younger generations of the city with little knowledge of just what a feat that piece of street car railroad was when undertaken something like 30 years ago.

It was in fact a real piece of engineering and a really big undertaking of its time. There was at least two things done that necessitated some real engineering. And it cost several lives.

There was the long fill from a point just beyond Sycamore street to the hills just beyond the Albion mill. It didn't mean just a few carloads of dirt but hundreds and hundreds of tons of dirt to build up some 30 feet at points of good solid foundation for the tracks.

Then there was the cut through the hills and it was here that several lost their lives in making the cut in order that the tracks might eventually reach their destination. And now all that remains to remind the future generations of this hard arduous task is the rails of a now useless street car track.

Hoover Finding It Tough To Cut Federal Expense

President Doing Everything Possible To Prune Down On Expenditures

COMPLAINTS ARE BEING RECEIVED

Deficit Of Close To Billion Makes It Necessary To Cut Down

By GEORGE R. HOLMES International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 23.—President Hoover is experiencing what might be termed tough going in his efforts to prune federal expenditures to conform with the federal income.

Despite a series of lengthy conferences and much scrutiny of various departmental budgets, the economies thus far envisioned have proved extremely small in relation to the present machinery of the federal government is geared to the income of prosperous times, and it doesn't easily accommodate itself to the reduced income brought about by the economic depression.

Conference Planned. Early today the president took the administrative personnel of the postoffice department to Rapidan for week-end conferences as to whether any money can be saved next year in the operation of the mails. The prospect admittedly is not alluring. The postal deficit this year is estimated at around $140,000,000, mostly attributable to the air mail and ocean mail subsidies.

The domestic mail service has already been tightened up to the point where complaints are being received in increasing volume. Hence it appears if there is to be any material saving it must be made in the air mail of foreign mail divisions through curtailment of service. This probably would lead to renewed complaints from extensive patrons of these services, as well as discourage the merchant marine and aircraft interests.

The public, it was pointed out today by one administration official, has been educated to expect certain luxuries of service yesterday are the necessities of service today. Curtailment of essential government services inevitably would lead to complaints and dissatisfaction from those elements of the public that have been educated to depend upon them. Political and other difficulties spring magically into being when the government back-tracks on service.

Maintain Wages. There is another aspect to the problem that worries and embarrasses the administration. President Hoover and all his advisers have insistently maintained there should be no wage cutting and no deflation of labor during the depression period. They have counseled industries and large employers of labor to keep their payrolls up to the limit to the end that the unemployment problem not be accentuated, and that the public's buying power be kept at the highest possible point.

This has been the government's plea to "big business"—no deflation, but full steam ahead. For the government now to reduce its personnel and curtail its activities would be to put it in the position of not taking its own advice—of preaching what it will not itself practice.

Neither President Hoover nor his cabinet aides relish being put in this position. And they fear, too, the psychological effect of such a government program upon general business at this time.

The alternative, of course, is an increase in taxes, which political Washington views with dismay and misgiving—particularly on the eve of the 1932 presidential election.

Hoover Commends Annual Poppy Sale

Township Board In "Tough Spot"

Constable Puts Township Board In "Tough Spot" Regarding Road Markers

STATE HIGHWAY ENTERS CASE

(International News Service) COATESVILLE, Pa., May 23.—Zealous for law enforcement, Constable George Hines of Sadsbury township has placed the township board of road supervisors in a "tough spot."

On the statute books, with many another, is a forgotten law requiring constables in each county to appear at terms of Quarter Sessions court and swear, among other things, that at all road intersections in their bailiwicks stand pointer boards, truthfully directing the wayfarer.

Constable Hines surveyed the roads in his township and decided he saw nothing which looked pointer boards. To the road supervisors he went, ordering them erected and declaring he would not perjure himself at Quarter Sessions. The supervisors, hesitant, conferred, then erected the directing boards on iron posts.

Came the state highway department, looking over the boards. The marketers, it was decided, directed travellers over bad roads to destinations easily reached over good state roads. And down came the marker.

Up went the hands of the supervisors. Constable Hines, said they, can go to West Chester and swear the pointer boards are not where they should be. Or he can go to Harrisburg and swear about the highway department ripping them down.

Pinchot Signs Ten Bills And Vetoes Eight

Governor At His Home In Milford Resting Over
Week-End

HISTORIC FURNACE GIVEN TO STATE

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 23.—Approval of ten bills passed by both houses of the legislature and veto of eight more was announced here Friday by the executive office for Gov. Pinchot.

The governor today is at his home at Milford to spend the week end.

Among the bills approved was one by Senator C. W. Ealy, Somerset, providing a judicial reapportionment which separates the present Mifflin-Huntingdon-Bedford county district and creates a judicial post in each of the three counties.

Other bills signed included one by Rep. Paul G. Adams, Lebanon, to permit the Pennsylvania Historical Commission to accept from the family of Senator William C. Freeman, Lebanon, the site of the historic Cornwall charcoal furnace in Lebanon county, one of the first in the state. The gift to the state also includes a trust fund, proceeds of which will be used to restore and preserve the furnace.

Two hundred thousand dollars will be transferred from the motor license fund to the State Aeronautics Commission for purchase of additional state landing fields through executive approval of a bill sponsored by Rep. Joseph Steedle, Allegheny. On the plea that Pennsylvania's 500 license airplane owners pay gasoline taxes and do not use the roads, the legislature each session appropriates from the motor fund to develop airports.

Pension Granted
Another bill signed will permit payment of $45 a month pension to the widow of Lieut. John W. Albright, a member of the 103rd Observation Squadron, Pennsylvania National Guard. The flyer was killed in an airplane crash in Maryland in 1929 but no pension could be paid his family under the compensation law at that time because the crash occurred outside the state.

Commenting that he believed the county unit, when well administered, is superior to the township system, the governor approved the Baker Bill creating borough and township districts in Union, Snyder and Juniata counties and abolishing the county districts. The bill was approved, the governor said, because he had been informed residents of the area are "substantially unanimous" in its support and "indignant over extravagance which is alleged to have occurred under the county system."

Vetoes Fight Bill
On the ground that the State Athletic Commission has ample authority to deal with faked fights the governor vetoed the bill of Senator John J. McClure, Delaware, which would have compelled a second contest when the first ended in a foul or was held to be unfair by the referee.

The governor in his veto message asserted that such a law would work a hardship on the contestant and an advantage to the promoter, who would be permitted to stage another contest without additional cost.

Sheriffs Bill Vetoes
In a long veto message the governor gave a score of reasons why he disapproved a bill by Senator Thaddeus Krause, Philadelphia, giving a general fee increase to sheriffs in all counties of the commonwealth. The governor admitted sympathy with legislation to provide uniform fees for sheriffs but found no other feature of the bill that met with his approval.

"This bill not only originated in Philadelphia," the governor asserted. "It was made to order for Philadelphia."

Another provision to which the governor objected was that which proposed payment of compensation and expenses of special deputy sheriffs appointed at the request of private corporations.

Other bills vetoed included:

Swartz, Philadelphia—To require officers and directors of building loan associations to be owners of at least ten shares of capital stock of the corporation.

Talbot, Delaware—To require motor busses to be equipped with non-shatterable glass.

Musmanno, Allegheny—To appropriate $3000 for preservation of the flags and guidons on display in the capitol.

Ruth, Berks—To increase the pension payments to teachers who retired for disability prior to July 1, 1919.

Garard, Greene—To extend further the time for registration of architects without examination.

A DANCE STEP CLOCK
(International News Service)
BERLIN, May 23.—A clock which sounds each step of every dance for those who cannot get the rhythm of the music has been invented by Walter Carols, dancing teacher of the Berlin radio broadcasting station. The clock can be set for any kind of dance. In a tango, for instance, it sounds the steps, "tak-tak-tak-tak, tak-tak-tak-tak" and red and blue signs and figures on its face show when to cross your feet, or make other necessary figures of the dance. With this clock, being out of step is impossible," Carols says confidently.

You can always bank on finding a well-filled pocket book interesting.

Complete Plans For Annual
Y. W. C. A. Meeting; Novel Idea For Event

VARIOUS COUNTRIES TO BE REPRESENTED

Plans are being rapidly and enthusiastically completed for the annual meeting of the membership of the local Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday, May 26. The theme of the meeting is to be "The Y. W. C. A. as a Force in International Good Will."

The tables for the supper, which will be served promptly at 6 o'clock, will be decorated to represent nine of the countries where the Y. W. C. A. has been a factor in influencing the lives of women. The hostess at each table will give a two-minute talk on some feature of the country, each talk to be followed by a dance or musical number from the folk-lore of the country.

Table decorations will for the most part consist of linens, pottery, novelties, etc., imported from the several countries.

The menu which has been prepared by members of the cafeteria committee will consist of dishes typical of those used in the countries represented on the program.

Hostesses of Evening.

Hostesses and the country they represent will be: Mrs. William Wheeler, Turkey; Mrs. John Byers, Japan; Mrs. Mary Conti, Italy; Miss Betty Campbell, India; Mrs. Susanna Klamar, Czechoslovakia; Mrs. Clara Baldwin, Mexico; Mrs. Rita Karidis, Greece; Mrs. James Blackwood, China; Miss Frances Zuchowska, Poland.

Committees and hostesses are expressing themselves as delighted with the enthusiasm with which friends of the association have loaned materials from their collections for this purpose.

An outstanding feature of the evening will be an address by Miss Blanche Best, who has recently accepted appointment to the position of executive secretary of the East Liberty branch of the Pittsburgh Y. W. C. A. Miss Best spent seven years in Y. W. work in Japan and during her vacations and furlough visited associations in other countries.

In 1930 Miss Best was a delegate to the World's Council of Young Women's Christian Associations, meeting at Geneva. Miss Best is a very interesting and colorful speaker and the members of the association are promised a rare treat in having her for this occasion.

The members of the board of directors, of which Mrs. John E. Elliott is president, will receive the membership from 5:30 to 6 in the parlors of the administration building where there will be on exhibit a collection of beautiful posters of foreign countries, some of which have been loaned for this occasion by interested friends in other cities.

Members and friends of the local association are asked to contribute flowers for decorating the building on Tuesday.

The general program has been prepared by the secretarial staff, assisted by members of classes and clubs in the Y. W. C. A. Miss Frances Carey, executive secretary of the association, announces the committee on general arrangements as follows: Mrs. Riley Ballard, Mrs. George W. Conway and Mrs. Jos. Rice, and the committee on registration consists of Mrs. W. R. Hanna, Mrs. L. C. Mantz and Mrs. Harry L. McCurdy.

Mrs. John E. Elliott will preside and the invocation will be given by Mrs. J. L. Stratton.

Altogether the affair promises to be one of unusual interest and members are urged to cooperate with the general committee by registering as early as possible.

Four Witnesses On Way To Help Virgil Kirkland

Four Persons In Iowa Claim To Have Knowledge
Draves' Slaying

DEFENSE PLANS FOR SURPRISE

(International News Service)
VALPARAISO, Ind., May 23.—Four new witnesses were thought to be on their way here today to testify in behalf of Virgil Kirkland, Gary, Ind., high school football star, who is standing trial a second time for murdering his sweetheart, Arlene Draves, at a gin-drinking party last fall.

R. A. Manning, Davenport, Ia., whose letter which was presented shortly before Kirkland took the stand created a small sensation yesterday, may appear in court. Another letter from him received late yesterday said he and his wife and another couple from Peoria, Ill., who claim they saw a girl fall from the car in front of the hot dog stand where it is claimed Kirkland and some of his friends attacked the dead girl, were leaving for Valparaiso. Attorney John Crumpacker sent them a wire, which was published, so he expects they have started.

The latest letter said in part: "I am sorry for these people and for the boy. None of us know only what happened there at the hot dog stand but all four know the truth of that part of it has not been brought out."

Sordid Details Unfolded
In a final effort to save himself from a possible death sentence, Kirkland testified yesterday, telling in sordid detail the events of the night of the fatal party and of his affair with Arlene many months preceding that. He denied that he attacked and murdered the young girl he claims to have loved and planned to marry.

Any relations between him and Arlene that night, the defendant insisted, were by her consent. He told of making love to her at various times during a year or more and narrated the details of a "strip poker" party which took place a few weeks before Arlene met her death. He also declared that Henry Shirk and Paul Barton, co-defendants who turned state's evidence against him, were the ones who attacked the Draves girl.

Unless the unexpected witnesses arrive, today will be taken up with a few rebuttal witnesses with lawyers' closing arguments scheduled for Monday.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 23.—Poultry raisers in Connecticut are facing a crisis. Folks aren't buying eggs the way they used to do. REDUCE YOUR COST OF FINE-CAR OWNERSHIP WITH OAKLAND EIGHT

an outstanding General Motors value

Naturally we are interested to know why people like the new Oakland Eight. And so, recently we asked a young couple what pleased them so much. Their answers were different in some ways—as men and women are supposed to be—but yet pretty much the same when you analyze them!

The woman said: "Well, for one thing, I can feel the quality of the upholstery. It's genuine mohair—and that convinces me the car is well made all through. Then, I think the Oakland is just as good-looking and smart as can be. The seats are so comfortable, too, and I can easily move the driver's seat forward or back to suit me exactly."

"It's no effort at all for me to steer the Oakland—and in traffic it's just fine how quickly it gets away. Of course I don't pretend to know mechanical things, but the gears surely do shift easily." (Indeed, they do—they're Synchro-Mesh!)

The man said: "Oakland struck me as an exceptionally good buy. It's a full-grown man's car. And when I slammed the doors, the car felt solid and well-built."

"I'm all for the new Oakland's motor. To me, a car that hasn't got plenty of speed and power simply won't do. I surely like the pick-up and smoothness I get with this. It eats up hills."

powerful big eight.

Of course, what they both liked was Oakland's all-round value. A man may not know fabrics, but he wants quality and durability there. A woman may not know motors, but she wants fine performance. Oakland has the quality everyone wants, and saves owners money on these qualities. (Body by Fisher)

Drive this fine car—or ride in it. Any Oakland-Pontiac dealer will arrange a demonstration at your convenience.

One important step in reducing your cost of car ownership is Oakland-Pontiac's policy of equipping its cars ready for the road. The prices you see advertised are the prices you actually pay. Cars are equipped with front and rear bumpers, 4 hydraulic shock absorbers, 5 wire wheels, and extra tire, tube and tire lock. Wood wheels optional at no extra cost.

Pope Urges Capital Share Profits With Workers For Harmony

His Holiness Urges Co-Partnership Basis Between Capital And Labor

Better Results Obtained When Workmen Become Interested In Management

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL International News Service Staff Correspondent

VATICAN CITY, May 23.—Partnership between capital and labor, enabling the working man to share in the profits of industry, was urged by Pope Pius XI. Today in his encyclical on labor supplementing the famous "Rerum Novarum" of Pope Leo XIII.

"We consider it advisable," his holiness said, "that so far as possible labor agreements be completed on a co-partnership basis, so that workmen may become interested in property management and partake of profits."

The encyclical, an outline of which was given out by his holiness last week in the course of his second worldwide radio broadcast, was published in full in the Osservatore Romano, semi-official Vatican organ.

Totalling 20,000 words, the encyclical traces the development of labor conditions throughout the world since the issuance of the "Rerum Novarum" forty years ago and contains the church's recommendations for the future.

Serious Questions
The document went deep into outstanding labor questions, weighing the arguments of capital and labor and drawing definite conclusions.

On the question of salary for labor, while insisting the working man should be paid a living wage to spare him the hardships of poverty, his holiness declared:

"It is unjust to claim exaggerated salaries when industry cannot afford them without its own ruin and ensuing disaster for the workmen. The aim should be to ensure work for the greatest possible number."

Deplores Inadequate Salaries
The Pope "deplored" conditions necessitating wives and mothers of families working to augment a working man's inadequate income.

"Salaries," he said, "should provide for workmen and for their families. That mothers should be forced, on account of their inadequate salaries, to work outside the home, neglecting the education of their sons and their domestic duties is deplorable, and constitutes a fault which should be eliminated."

His holiness said he looked "with favor" upon the "corporate organizations" instituted by the fascist regime in Italy.

"Corporations formed by representatives of employers, employees and syndicates in the same industry are directing their efforts in the common interest," the encyclical said. "Strikes are forbidden and when no agreement is reached in time of dispute, special magistrates intervene."

The Pope pointed out that such a system might be subjected to abuse by those in power.

"Some," he said, "fear that with the organization of such bodies the state would be tempted to substitute itself for free play and also that the corporations could be exceedingly political in nature and direct themselves to particular political ends."

The organic evening frock is new and smart, especially for juniors.

City Schools Considered As Industry In Analogy

Taxpayers Likened To Stockholders, Principals As Foremen; Study Results

Young Men, Woman "Raw Material," But Become "Finished Product" In Time

The city school system has been likened to a huge industry, one of the most important corporations in the nation, in an analogy published in the latest issue of "The School Bulletin" of the New Castle schools.

In order to explain the relation between the lay and professional administrative authorities the article was prepared with a view to considering the school system as a gigantic industry. For the purpose of the study of relation between the lay and professional authorities the article states:

"For the time being let us think of the city school system as an industry capitalized at millions of dollars, requiring an annual operating budget of more than a million dollars, using the most precious raw material known to man, and delivering a finished product upon whose quality depends the welfare of the community, the state and the nation."

The organization of the proposed industry is declared to be as follows:
Stockholders—Taxpayers.
Board of Directors—School Board.
Manager—Superintendent of Schools.

Skilled Workers—Teachers.
Raw Material—Children of every possible grade of intelligence, character, physical characteristics.

Process—Education: Intellectual, emotional, physical, spiritual.
Finished Product—Young men and women prepared for the function of citizenship and social usefulness.

With respect to raw material, process and finished product, the school faces difficulties unknown to a business organization, the article states. For example:

Raw material—No selection. The school must take whatever is sent to it. In industry defective materials may be rejected.

The process of education—A highly technical process and delicate in its adjustment. The workman in industry would not be expected to produce a finely adjusted machine if he were subject to constant interference and annoyance. Yet teachers frequently must work under such conditions.

The psychological aspects of the case demand that correct emotional attitudes prevail on the part of both the pupil and the teacher if satisfactory results are to be obtained. For obvious reasons this condition is exceedingly difficult to maintain.

The finished product—While it is perfectly plain in industry that the finished product is determined by the material used, as well as the workmanship that truth is not so commonly understood with respect to the educative process. Teachers are not workers of miracles. They are not able to contravene natural laws. They cannot make scholars if the fundamental elements of scholarship are not found in the pupil.

In the matter of management, the School Bulletin article indicates that we have what we may term the lay and professional administrative authorities, and to prevent confusion and produce satisfactory results, the functions of each should be clearly defined.

Next Weekly Meeting Of Travel Club Will Be On Theme Of "Africa"

Africa will be the country visited next Thursday evening by the members of the Travel club of the New Castle free public library.

At Thursday evening's meeting of this week the members decided to look into Africa and will devote the next meeting period to the discussion of that dark and somewhat mysterious country.

The meeting was well attended and the boys and girls heard tales of Spain, told by Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian. Several of the members volunteered to tell of the Italian "Pinocchio," the subject of a week ago. All in all it was a very enjoyable session.

A list of books was presented to the members and they may choose whatever several they wish to read in order that they may qualify for a "passport." The "passport" is presented to a member after he or she has read 10 books from a selected list of travel stories.

The Spanish books are as follows:
Bates—In Sunny Spain.
Braun—Lupé Goes to School.
Ervates—Don Quixote of the Manche.

El Cid Campeador—Tale of the Warrior Lord.
Gunterman—Castles in Spain.
Henderson—Wonder Tales of Ancient Spain.
Irving—Tales of Alhambra.

ANCIENT VASE FOUND
(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 23.—Fragments of an Indian vase, believed to be over 2000 years old, have been received by the Archaeological department of the Los Angeles museum.

The ancient vase was found near Coolidge, Ariz., where according to historians, a tribe of American Indians lived. The vase was added to the museum's vast collection of Indian relics.

Throughout alumni day there will be sessions and addresses by famous medical men and instructors of Jefferson.

Plans Being Completed For County Sabbath School Sessions, June 11

United Presbyterian church will be included in the musical program being arranged by John W. Owens, choir leader of the First Baptist church, for the evening session of the 93rd convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association which is to be held at the Scottish Rite Cathedral all day Thursday, June 11. The speaker of the evening session will be Rev. A. E. Driggers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Kittanning, Pa., who was a speaker at the State Convention held in Scranton last October. The County Convention this year will be an unusually inspirational and constructive one and the motto of the convention will be "The Way, The Truth and The Life". The convention sermon will be delivered by Rev. Rees T. Williams, pastor First Congregational church at the morning session. The State Association Sabbath School specialists who will take part in the program will be Walter E. Myers, general secretary and administration superintendent, of Philadelphia, and Miss Lillian E. Reed, children's division superintendent, also of Philadelphia. The students do the news gathering and the writing and they do it in a commendable manner. The current issue tells of the annual ninth grade party, the Girl Reserve activities, the assembly programs, the honor roll, class notes, musical activities, editorials, literary material from the English classes, shop notes, jokes, etc.

The Parent Problem

Put Baby In Sleeping Bag Big Enough For Freedom; Let Him Cry Self To Sleep

Break Rocking Habit At Night First; Then Tackle The Daytime Problem, Advises Child Psychologist

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D., Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

"Dear Dr. Myers: I spoiled my baby boy ever since he was small by rocking him to sleep both at night and during the day time. He wakes up during the night sometimes two and three times and will not go back to sleep until I rock him in his crib. I have tried letting him cry until he drops back to sleep, but he will uncover himself and stand up in his crib and if I let him do that he would catch cold every night. I feed him the last thing before we go to bed and make him as comfortable as possible. He is 11 months old and is healthy. I also have to rock him to sleep for his daytime naps.

"It is very hard on me, as I never get a good night's rest. There is also another baby coming in a couple of months and I would like so much to have him sleep better at night. What would you advise me to do? Please answer through the column of our paper."

Answer: In the first place, don't condemn yourself too severely. You are only human like other parents. Hundreds have done as you have. Just be practical, and think through a plan to get results.

Put the baby into a sleeping bag which fits comfortably but snugly around the neck, enclosing the arms and legs, with ample size to give perfect freedom to the limbs, made of light warm material such as eiderdown, and then let him cry it out. Never take him up even if he is wet until the habit is corrected.

I should go on rocking him to sleep by day until this first habit is mastered at night. Then the first step is to put him to bed at night without rocking him and let him cry himself to sleep, if it takes all night. This conquered, attack the problem of the afternoon.

Put him down in bed, say nothing about sleep, but place yourself where you can see him and he can't see you. Bare his bottom and give him a good sound spanking when he gets up; then go back to your position and do likewise every time he arises. Do it instantly. Budget your time so that you will always be on hand when he gets up. Otherwise you will get no results. It may take a week or two, but it will be worth your efforts and mean a great deal to the child.

Take good care of yourself. How wonderful that your baby is to have a playmate!

I shall be glad to answer in these columns letters addressed to me in care of this paper, provided these questions seem to be of general interest.

If you have a question you would like to have answered personally, write me, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Punishments and Rewards" and "Fear."

Bids Opened For Connecting Link

State Highway Opens Bids For Link Between New Wilmington And Mercer

The State Highway department has opened bids on several road projects, among them the bid of the Keystone Paving Inc., of Harrisburg, for the 6.94 miles of unpaved road between New Wilmington and Mercer. The bid of the Keystone company was the lowest for the construction. There were many other bidders. The bid for the work is $199,109.33.

The announcement that bids have been opened for this important connecting link will be especially interesting to New Castle motorists who desire a short paved route to Mercer. The road is now paved a short way out of Mercer toward New Wilmington.

Actual work on the road will be started sometime within the next few weeks is the indication.

Learn Best Method To Resuscitate

Clendening Gives Correct Treatment For Drowned

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There is one definite proper treatment to be used to resuscitate a drowned person. There are a great many wrongs and unnecessary things to do, and they are usually the ones that are done. Every person's education should include a knowledge of the one proper indispensable procedure to carry out.

The first thing to do is to get the patient started breathing. Do not do anything else first. Don't try to get the water out of his lungs or stomach by rolling him on a barrel. Don't try to get him warm. Don't try to loosen the clothes if he has any on. Get him to breathing. And don't stop trying for at least four hours. Don't give a drowned person up for dead until you have worked on him as long as that.

The dangerous and fatal feature in drowning is paralysis of respiration. This is a nervous reflex, apparently, and is not related either to the amount of water inhaled or the length of time the person has been in the water.

There is one good and several less good methods of starting breathing by artificial respiration. The one recommended after extended experimentation by the Royal Life Saving Society of Great Britain, the American Gas Company and the National Electric Light Association, is the Schafer prone pressure method.

This is the way to do it: Stretch the patient face down on the ground. Stretch the legs out. Stretch the right arm out straight up past the head. Bend the left arm so that the patient's forehead or cheek rests on it. This raises the mouth and nose off the ground and allows air to get in. The fact that the patient is face down is better than on the back, because the tongue will not fall into the back of the throat and obstruct breathing.

Sit straddle the patient's buttocks, facing toward his head. Put your two palms on each side of his chest and bear down, squeezing all the breath out of his lungs. Maintain this while you count three. Then snap your hands off the chest, when it will expand, drawing air in, while you count three; then make pressure again.

Keep this up until the patient is able to breathe of his own accord.

Cases are on record of people gaining consciousness after they had been worked on four hours. The worst method of artificial respiration is the one most people know of putting the patient on his back and alternately raising the arms over the head and forcing them down on the chest—the Silvester method. This gives an air exchange of 2280 c. c. a minute as against 6760 c. c. by the prone pressure method recommended.

Don't begin to yell for a pulmonologist. They are not nearly as effective as the method described.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
Mrs. L. N., New York City: "What is your experience with institutions which undertake to cure hemorrhoids, and may such a cure be undertaken by an elderly woman with the same safety as a young woman?"

Answer: It depends on the institution. Since there are too many of them for me to keep track of, the best thing to do is to ask your family doctor for advice about the one in your community that you have in mind. Isn't that one of the things a family doctor is for? Hemorrhoids occur more frequently after middle age, and elderly people frequently have the operation with safety.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Ticker Tumble of recent weeks precipitated a nip and tuck race between U. S. Steel common and American Can, both headed for par.

The contest that came to be known as the Wall Street Derby prompted wagers that ran into the tens of thousands and ended on May 18, when American Can dropped from over 100 to 94, Steel closing the gap at 99.

BRUTES AND BEASTS
New York boasts a hostelry for stage animals, on West 42nd street. It's known to circus folk and vaudeville performers as "Happy Family Inn."

There is no really "happy" haven for beasts in captivity. Stage animals, as a rule, are well looked after and are infinitely better off than the wretched wild brothers in menageries.

As Dr. Axel Munthe says in "The Story of San Michele": "Why do not well meaning animal lovers concentrate their effort on putting a stop to the exhibition of wild animals in circuses and menageries? As long as this scandal is tolerated by our laws there is little chance for us to be looked upon as civilized by a future generation. If you want to realize what a set of barbarians we really are, you have only to enter the tent of a traveling menagerie. The cruel wild beast is not behind the bars of his cage, he stands in front of it."

SUPPLY WAY AHEAD
During the last six years there have been erected in the Grand Central zone 35 buildings representing an investment of nearly two hundred million dollars and having rentable area of 10 million 400 thousand square feet, equivalent to 240 acres.

Builders in that particular zone have certainly earned a holiday and it might be just as well if they took one. If office space increases as it's been doing lately, above the rate of absorption, The Blue Print Lads may have to take that vacation—without pay.

CAMEO STORY
Some years ago a young newspaper man in town had a heart to heart talk with The Boss. The young man had been offered a job in Wall Street and was in quest of advice. He liked newspaper work, but he wanted to get ahead. What future did the city room hold?

"I'd stick," said The Boss, loyal to his standard.

But the young man didn't stick. He took the Wall Street job.

Chest Drive Is Nearing Goal

Last Effort Is Under Way—About $7,000 To Be Raised

ELLWOOD CITY, May 23.—The Community Chest campaign has reached the last stretch of its drive today. The final reports Friday brought the total in the chest at present to $20,761.56. The sum raised Friday was $4,962.35. This leaves a sum of $6,738.44 to raise by this evening. Consequently all of the reports are not in as yet. There is still some industrial and commercial money still out. Chest officials hope that all reports come in soon so that the drive may end on time as in former years.

Citizens have been responding splendidly as a whole. If the goal is not reached by this evening the campaign will be extended until Monday. Welfare institutions of this city have been doing some wonderful work and have spent more money for the month of April than last year.

The sum of $27,500 is the minimum amount the institutions may function properly for the year. It is evident that more people than ever will be seeking the support of the Community Service League this year because of the prevailing conditions. An appeal again is made to the hearts of citizens to have the quota raised by this evening that necessary work may continue.

Banquet Event Honors Mothers

ELLWOOD CITY, May 23.—The members of the Dorcas Bible class of the First Baptist church entertained their mothers at a fine banquet in the dining room of the church last night. There were 46 present.

A beautiful color scheme of lavender and yellow were carried out in the room and tables which were centered with lovely flowers. Each mother was presented with a lovely yellow rose and Mrs. Ray Newton the teacher of the class was presented with a bouquet of yellow roses in appreciation of her fine work with the class.

Mrs. Velma McConnell gave thanks before the dinner and also rendered a vocal selection. After the dinner had finished all had joined in the singing of "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds" after which the program was presented.

Mrs. Lawrence Mosely favored the gathering with a vocal solo after which the toast to the mothers was given by Mrs. Cleda Wiley and to which Mrs. Ted Bouck responded. This was followed with a play given by Mrs. Archie Murchy. The feature of the program was a play given entitled "Not A Man in the House." Those participating in this were the mesdames Ethel Vangorder, Florence Rogers, Celia Pfandmeyer, Helen Garwig, and Mary Boies.

Senior Class Is Graduated

Ninety Seven Members Of Ellwood City High Are Given Diplomas

DR. M. M. PEARCE MAKES ADDRESS

ELLWOOD CITY, May 23.—Despite the bad weather conditions last night a packed house turned out to the Commencement exercises of the class of '31 of Ellwood High school in the Lincoln Auditorium. This event concluded a most active week for 97 seniors and their scholastic careers. They were seated on the stage.

The high school orchestra presented the prelude "March of the Brave" which inaugurated the events of the evening. After the invocation given by Rev. W. E. Minter the Boy's quartette of the high school rendered two selections.

Virginia Wiley delivered the Salutatory address on "Service to the Community." She gladly welcomed the audience to their commencement exercises which had at last become a reality. As a result of their education they render an invaluable service to the school and community by being better fit for taking up the reigns of citizenship. They have been taught to render service, be efficient and dependable and will accept the challenge of the public to reveal their learning during their practical life.

The valedictory address "Through the Gateway" was given by William Bayers. The portals are opened and we walk through the gate into the world. We have spent a great time in school and are now prepared to face life. We have no beaten paths or trails to follow. We must build our own road," said Mr. Bayers.

He encouraged the class members to be tenacious in their chosen field and success would follow. Observing the Golden Rule would tend to make their lives a much happier one and their goal less distant. He expressed a desire that the class in years to come would maintain their friendships which they had acquired during their high school days. The address was closed with a final farewell of the class, teachers and school.

Dr. Pearce Speaks
After two selections by the Sixth Grade Boys Chorus Superintendent of schools W. Ray Smith introduced Dr. M. M. Pearce, president of Genoa College as the principal speaker of the evening.

Dr. Pearce chose as his subject "Vision and Life." During the address it was revealed that the speaker was one of the founders of Ellwood City. He had worked with a surveyor that had planned the streets and congratulated the citizens upon the wonderful progress made since that time. He drew a comparison of education of former times with that of the co-education system of today and stated that the young men and women would have influence over each other that is favorable for work. The speaker stressed the point that a city is not measured by the number of inhabitants it has but by the visions it inspires in its youth. Athens and other similar cities were not remarkable for their population but for their great men and women. America is great in the field of education and high attainment is reached because visions have inspired youth. What the visions should be and mean are a broad human sympathy that is ever so much needed now; personal attainment to go to reach or a definite work to do in the world; and a vision of character which will cause one to go the straight and narrow path. Above all a mother wishes her child to be of noble character and hold himself true. The last word of advice by Dr. Pearce was "study till the going down of the sun."

Following the selection by the high school orchestra "Venitiam Carnival" Prof. J. Ellis Bell, principal of the high school read the roll of the members of the class after which all marched to the front of the stage to receive their diplomas from Dr. H. E. Helling, president of the board of education.

Dr. Helling thanked the speaker of the evening in behalf of the community and also complimented the citizens upon their fine spirit shown in turning out for the service in such weather. Dr. Helling stated that the class is now better fit to grapple with the problems of life. Their education has taught them to be square, good sportsmen and develop a fine character. He pointed out that there are a great number of students all over the country that are being graduated at this time and the local class will need the support of the citizens to establish themselves. It is only through hard work and persistence that success is attained. The citizens of the community were invited to sit in on the board meetings and visit the schools often to observe the work being done.

Rain Causes Davis To Postpone Meet

The weatherman and his rain-makers this morning forced Chief Scout Commissioner Ralph F. Davis of the Boy Scouts to postpone indefinitely this afternoon's outdoor rally and round-up of the northern district troops at George Washington field.

Davis officially called off the meet at 11 o'clock after learning of the unfavorable condition of the Washington grounds.

No definite date was set for the events, but it was assured the meet would occur later.

Rock Fall Kills Four Miners And Fifth Is Injured

Workmen Clear Away Debris And Repair Rails In Mine Slope Today

(International News Service)
SHENANDOAH, Pa., May 23.—Workmen today were clearing away debris and laying new rails in the working slope of the William Penn Colliery near here, where four men were killed and a fifth critically injured in a rock fall late yesterday.

Neither state mine inspectors nor officials of the Susquehanna Collieries Company, operators of the mine, could account for the cause of the fall, they announced after an investigation.

The five members of the night shift at the colliery, had just reported for work and were descending into the slope when the mine car in which they were riding was crushed under tons of rock and coal which roared down from the slope. Joseph Ramavage, Andrew Tomko, Neil Chickereen and Nicholas Pisano were killed instantly in the fall and Anthony Cobau was so badly hurt he will probably die.

Bodies of the men were brought up after the mine rescue squad of the colliery dug through the debris for an hour. The mine will probably not be able to operate until next week, officials said today.

The Texans—6. The Texans Aid Santa Anna

A WAVE OF ANGER SWEEPED THROUGH THE AMERICAN COMMUNITIES IN TEXAS WHEN THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT (1830) TOOK MEASURES TO RESTRICT THE RIGHTS OF AMERICAN SETTLERS IN THAT PROVINCE.

IN 1830 GENERAL ANTONIO LOPEZ DE SANTA ANNA WAS TRYING TO OVERTHROW THE GOVERNMENT OF PRESIDENT GUERRERO. SEEING A CHANCE TO RIGHT THEIR WRONGS, THE TEXANS ESPOUSED THE CAUSE OF THE REVOLUTIONARY LEADER. (Copyright, 1931, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

EAGER TO RID THEMSELVES OF THE OBNOXIOUS ARMY OF OCCUPATION, THE TEXANS ROSE IN ARMS AND FIERCELY ATTACKED THE SCATTERED GARRISONS OF MEXICAN FEDERALS.

DEFEATED EVERYWHERE, THE FEDERALISTS FLED SOUTHWARD ACROSS THE RIO GRANDE. VICTORIOUS IN ALL QUARTERS, SANTA ANNA CAME INTO POWER AT MEXICO CITY.

McVey And Firpo To Fight Monday

Middleweights To Appear In 10 Round Bout In Bowl Ring

ARNOLD TO MEET
FRANKIE STELMACK

Fight fans here are keyed to a high-fistic fever and are awaiting the 10 round battle Monday night between Jack McVey, New York city and Henry Firpo, Louisville. McVey is accredited with holding the colored middleweight championship of the world and the ancient riddle "How good is Henry Firpo?" has not yet been answered. It may be solved Monday night.

McVey is one of the best known fighters in the country. During 1930 he participated in 14 scraps, winning 12 of the encounters. Firpo has been winning constantly and several weeks ago he defeated Sam Bruce.

There isn't a topnotcher who McVey hasn't met and one year ago he won the decision from Firpo at Williamsport. Henry hopes that in the coming "go" he will be able to reverse the award.

They will reach this city tomorrow. McVey will not participate in a workout as he makes it a rule never to train on Sunday. However, Firpo will do light work at the gymnasium of Bob Latara.

McVey Rated High
Should one gaze through Collier's Year Book and Pocket Manual for 1931, they'll be able to ascertain that Mr. McVey's son, Jack is rated rather highly; in fact 34 points farther advanced in fistic skill than the 'Louisvillian'.

It is possible to attain 300 points. Sam has been accredited with 263. Firpo is assigned 234 and on the basis of this it looks as though Jack will be favored to take the "nod" which is pugilistic language for the decision.

But one knows how good Firpo is. He has been tried and found true blue. He has never ducked an opponent and has fought his best every time he appeared here. There's no slackerism in this boy Firpo.

McVey is said to be a beautiful boxer with a bag of tricks that would put a Hindoo magician to shame and on paper the McVey-Firpo encounter appears much better than a Bruce-Firpo bout.

Plenty of Action
Lefty Arnold, the "sock kid" will take on Frankie Stelmack of Cleveland in the six round semi-final. The local boy has won most of his fights with a "kayo." Stelmack is a seasoned veteran and Arnold will have his work cut out.

Homer Gray, conqueror of Nick Adamo, will fight Jack White, Sharkey's best middleweight. Gray declares he will start with the bell and either "White or he will be stretched cold."

Willie Stribling of this city and Vito Mangine will box in one of the first two preliminaries and the other contest will be staged by Merle Gibson and Joe Testa.

The first bout will start at 9 o'clock daylight savings time.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

JOHN VAN RYN and George Lott, America's two youthful contenders for the French hard-courts tennis championship defeated Andrew Piel and Rene Villard, France, 6-1, 6-2, 9-7 and 8-6, 6-3, 6-3, respectively.

ERIC MARTIN SMITH, 22, Cambridge University, who entered the British amateur golf championship just for fun, defeated John De Forest by one hole in the final 36 hole match and he won the championship.

JACK McVEY's appearance here will be eagerly awaited. The last time he fought in this vicinity he beat Osk Till at Pittsburgh. No doubt he will give Henry Firpo plenty to think about when they start flinging gloves.

IT DOESN'T look as though there is any chance about Battalino, the featherweight champion, as he beat Fidel La Barba last night. His aggressiveness offset the Californian's skill in 15 rounds at New York.

Battalino Wins Over LaBarba In Slow Garden Bout

Featherweight Champion Wins Decision In Poor Exhibition

CALIFORNIA BOY IS OFF COLOR

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 23.—Fidel LaBarba had his big chance at Madison Square Garden last night—and muffed it.

Installed a favorite at final odds of 2½ to 1 to lift Bat Battalino's featherweight crown, the former lightweight champion gave a dull exhibition for fifteen dreary rounds and lost the decision to the battle-scarred Connecticut warrior. In the grip of a strange apathy, LaBarba failed to get started until the fifth round and then wilted completely from the tenth round on after fighting with some like his customary brilliance during the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth frames.

Bout Very Slow
Incessant clinching and holding marred the bout. It was the pace of Battalino, who had to force almost all the fighting. In four rounds not more than half a dozen solid blows were struck. In others LaBarba landed more frequently than the champion, but the latter earned an even break by his aggressiveness.

The writer gave five rounds to each man and called the other five even. Some ringside observers gave LaBarba an edge of two rounds, but when the officials rendered their decision, which was unanimous. The consensus of opinion was that to award the title to the Californian on the strength of his dull performance would have been a crime.

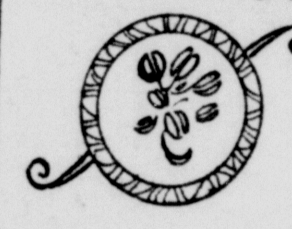

Record-Breaker

At the end of a gruelling 26-mile marathon from Laurel, Md., to Baltimore, William "Bill" Agee, long-distance runner and Olympic star of Baltimore, is shown breaking the tape as the victor and there by annexing the National Amateur Athletic Union championship. His time for the race was 2:32.38. The old mark of 2:47.58 was held by Frank Zuna.

Ball Yard Banter

Losers Is Winner In This Case As Dad Gives $13,000

John De Forest, Young British-Loses Amateur Championship

The new National league ball is "k." says John J. McGraw, who has viewed baseballs of varying brands for some 40 years. "It has accounted for a number of interesting ball games this year."

That's right, John. And probably some of the most interesting were all those games the Giants have garnered in their pennant dash. Eh, what?

Rube Marquard, the old Giant ace, who managed a minor league team with some success last year, isn't managing it any more. The league blew up. That left the Rube out of a job. So now he's turned umpire and twirls the indicator for the Eastern league.

Wonder if the Rube, always a pitcher at heart, will some day forget himself and bellow: "Ball three! Hey, guy, try one low and inside this time!"

The factor that put an end to Ty Cobb's long and illustrious baseball career as well as that of many another outfield star seems destined to write finish to the playing life of Eddie Roush, who returned to the Cincinnati Reds this season after two years of idleness as a Giant holdout.

Like Cobb, Roush retains his old batting eye, but the road to first base seems much longer these days.

"I've been trying to play myself into condition," says Roush, "but it's a tough job. I formerly was able to do without any spring training. But I'm older now. Until the Reds made their offer I thought my playing days were over. However, I'm not going to give up too easily. If I can get into first-class shape again you can bet I will!"

YOUTHFUL RACING CHAMPION TO DEFEND FIRST TITLE

Billy Arnold . . . before a race . . . fresh, eager. immaculate. Billy Arnold . . . after a race . . . begrimed, tired but happy.

Billy Arnold, auto racing's champion, and his mechanic, Spider Matlock, all set to "go places" entered in the Indianapolis 500-mile speedway race, Memorial Day, May 30. Arnold will again drive the Hartz Miller special and once more have Spider Matlock as his mechanic.

Shenango Plays Mahoning Club

Lawrence County League Team To Meet Mahoning On Monday Night

On Monday night at 6:15 o'clock the Shenango team of the county league will play the strong Mahoning A. A. club at Centennial field. The two teams played earlier in the season to a 5-5 tie. Darkness halted the game. A fast game is anticipated.

The game was to have been played recently but rain caused a postponement. The game will be played Monday night. There is lots of rivalry between these two aggregations and for this reason a fast contest is assured.

The Scarazzos are after revenge. McCann and Gillum will officiate the game. The batterers for the game will be: Universals, Shiek Duffley catch; Scarazzos, Rottenbaugh pitch and Piccaro catch.

And speaking of family trees, have you noticed how a little grafting will save one that's dying out?

Titans Have Won Three Dual Meets By Large Scores

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 23.—Undeclared in dual meets this spring, the Westminster College track team boasts the best record in recent years. The Titans have won three dual meets with district rivals by large scores and have broken six Westminster track and field records.

Grove City was defeated in the opening meet by an 83-52 score. Here the Titans scored clean sweeps in the mile and half mile events; won nine first places, 10 second places, and eight third places; and broke the Titan pole vault record when Patterson leaped 11 feet 3 inches.

Allegheny was defeated next by a 94-41 score at Meadville. In this meet the Titans made clean sweeps in the 100-yard dash, mile, and shot put; tallied 11 first places, 11 second places, and six third places; and broke the Titan two-mile record when Smalley was clocked in 10 minutes and 15 seconds.

Bethany was trounced at New Wilmington by a 107-28 score in a meet in which three Titan records were broken. Thirteen first places, 12 second places, and five third places were taken by blue and white athletes. Hamas broke the shot put record with a toss of 41 feet 3-4 inch; Brownlee broke the hammer record with a throw of 149 feet and 3 inches; and Hemen broke the 220-yard dash record when he was clocked in 22½ seconds.

In the three dual meets, "Bud" Brownlee, Lock Haven star, tallied 10 first places and one second place to score a total of 33 points. Captain "Lou" Piesensky, Turtle Creek, was second in scoring with 40 points. Brownlee starred in the high hurdles, low hurdles, hammer throw, and discus throw. Piesensky scored his points in the 100, 220, broad jump, low hurdles, hammer, and discus.

Nineteen of the 22 men on the team have scored points in the three dual meets. Of this number, 15 have already tallied enough points for varsity letters.

The annual dual meet with Geneva at Beaver Falls was cancelled by Geneva authorities. The Titans and the Covenanters are both strong teams, and although Westminster teams given an even chance against the Beaver Falls team, the chances are that the Covenanters would have won by a small margin had the dual meet been staged.

Westminster is now pointing to the annual Tri-State Conference championship meet at Beaver Falls on Memorial Day. In this meet, Geneva, Bethany, Waynesburg, and Westminster will fight it out for the conference crown. With the exception of West Virginia, Westminster has the only undefeated dual meet record in the entire district.

Dodgers Climb, Take Two Games

Brooklyn Goes Into Fifth Place By Taking Twin Bill From Phillies

BROOKLYN FANS ELATED TODAY

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 23.—Every man, woman and child in dear old Brooklyn today re-pledged their undying faith in Santa Claus and everything else, which, after many promises and long waiting, finally becomes a fact.

For the Brooklyn Robins, bogged down for so many weeks and consistently at discouraging as rain on Sunday, at last came through with a crash that must have made old Liberty Bell fairly tingle. They humbled the Phillies twice, 3 to 2 and 5 to 2, the twin triumph raising Brooklyn to fifth place in National League ratings.

The two wins and the advance in standing were something, of course, but in Brooklyn the games were taken as just the start of a much belated Robin drive that will send the Dodgers right up to the top to annoy St. Louis and New York.

Vance Wins Game
In the opener Vance hurled a seven-hit game, winning it, too, although he was actually knocked out of the box in the ninth inning, when Pinky Whitney bounced a terrific liner at him. Vance countered with his jaw and John Pincus Quinn was summoned to finish fog him.

Joe Shaute flew the Robins higher in the final, in which he was considerably assisted by Babe Herman, who homered off Collins with two men on.

For the first time in weeks, Buzz Arlett, the new hitting sensation of the Phillies, was strangely silent. The former coast slugger managed to get one safety off Vance but goose-egged the rest of the frames. And Lefty O'Doul, long since abandoned against a king of swat, whaling two hits in the first game and one in the second. Ernesto Lombardi, former coast player, caught Shaute and had a perfect day at bat with four hits in four attempts.

Iowa, Dark Horse In Big Ten Meet

(International News Service)

EVANSTON, Ill., May 23.—Iowa, dark horse in big ten track affairs this season, leader in the number of men placed in the preliminaries at Dyche Stadium yesterday, today battled with Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois for the 1931 outdoor championship.

Track followers pointed out that despite the Hawkeye's 16 qualifiers, they would probably finish behind the other three schools, who placed nearly as many men with better marks. Michigan qualified 15, Ohio State, 14, and Illinois, 13.

Iowa's surest bet is L. D. Weldon who has the best javelin throw, 191 feet, 10 feet farther than his nearest competitor, and Ed Gordon, the long-legged negro broad jumper, who did 24 feet, 1 1/2 inches in the trials. Four of Iowa's qualifiers are in one event. The hammer throw though, cutting down their potential points.

County League Contests Today

The leader of the Lawrence county league will be known tonight following the Hillsville-West Pittsburg contest which is scheduled at West Pittsburg. Other games in the league are:

Brent at Scarazzo; Bessemer at North Highland; Universal at Wampum. Hillsville and West Pittsburg have failed to lose a game so far and a loss will mean the second place. Both teams have been playing championship like baseball.

All games will get underway at 3:00 o'clock.

Tom Coulter Leads Tech To Victory

Carnegie Tech defeated Grove City in a field meet at Grove City yesterday. Tom Coulter of Tech captured three first and broke one record. The points were: Carnegie Tech 84 2-3; Grove City 50 1-3.

Coulter raced the 440 yards in 49 2-10 records which set a new record for the Grove City track. He led Kammer by 15 yards.

Coulter's other victories were in the 120 yard high hurdles and also the 220 yard low hurdles. Seyboth tossed the shot 42 feet 2 inches which made a new Tech and Grove City mark.

Ryan, Conner, Nader, Bush, Marcell, Judge. The Lawrence team would like to arrange a double bill for Decoration Day. For games call 9025.

Of all things inmates of "county institutions" do not want is a lot of club women visiting and looking down their noses at them.

Garfield was associated with the Boland & Cornelius Company, steamship operators of Cleveland. He was a graduate of Williams College in 1916 and a veteran of the World War.

Religious Freedom Decreed In Spain

Spanish Cabinet Decrees Freedom Of Worship For All Creeds

(International News Service)
MADRID, May 23.—Complete separation of church and state in Spain was envisioned for the near future today as the result of the cabinet decree instituting freedom of worship of all creeds and faiths.

The decree states that Roman Catholicism is no longer recognized as the official religion of the country. Actual separation of church and state, however, cannot take place until the concordat signed between Spain and the Vatican in 1851 is abrogated by mutual consent.

Harrison Gets Coaching Post At University Of Iowa For '32

Westminster Court Coach Returns To Alma Mater

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 23.—Lawrence "Pops" Harrison, popular Westminster college basketball coach who resigned at the end of the past season, has signed as assistant varsity basketball and head freshman baseball coach at the University of Iowa. Iowa officials announced Thursday.

Harrison started in football, basketball and baseball at Iowa, from which university he was graduated in 1928. He was All-Conference guard on the championship Iowa basketball team, and won the Conference medal for proficiency in scholarship and athletics. For two years following his graduation from Iowa, Harrison was an assistant coach in basketball and baseball. He came to Westminster last fall as director of athletics and head coach of basketball.

At Westminster, Harrison continued the Titans in their championship ways when his basketball team won 15 out of 16 games to clinch the Tri-State Conference crown. He has also been proctor of Browne hall, freshman dormitory, at Westminster. Harrison, a popular speaker, has spoken at athletic banquets in Sharon, New Castle, Farrell, Sharpsville, Hickory and New Wilmington during the last two months. Harrison will be on the staff of the University of Iowa this summer, acting as director of swimming.

Success Greeted "Pay Promptly" Test Campaigns

Public Is Found Quick To Respond To Newspaper Advertising Tests

Advice received from St. Louis by Ray F. Hall, manager of the New Castle Credit Exchange, shows that the American public is quick to respond to newspaper advertising which points out the value of paying bills promptly as an important means of speeding up business and bringing back prosperity. Test campaigns with "Pay Promptly" as the theme have successfully been run under the direction of the National Retail Credit association in a number of cities, including Minneapolis, Memphis, Oklahoma City, Kansas City and Nashville, with the result that preliminary plans are under way to extend the effort to a number of other cities.

Back to the advertising tests, and the consequent decision to enlarge the educational work, is the fact that American retail merchants are in the banking business to the extent of 28 billion dollars worth of open credits and installment sales annually," wrote Manager-Treasurer David J. Woodcock of the national organization in a letter to local credit men. "Approximately 15 billion dollars or more than half of it is not paid when due. As a result of the public's failure to pay bills when they should be paid, billions of dollars of merchants' capital is tied up in frozen assets. We find that consistent advertising in test cities has speeded up collections effectively and thereby helped to increase the dollar turnover in retail trade."

Bids On Mercer Road Are Lowest In State History

Very Little Difference Shown By First Three Bidders For Project

Bids for the construction of practically seven miles of concrete road between New Wilmington and Mercer in Mercer county, which were opened at Harrisburg yesterday, developed the lowest prices for concrete road construction in the history of the state.

There was very little difference between the first three bidders, and some keen bidding was experienced. The lowest bid was that of the Keystone Paving Co. with $199,109, the second lowest being J. C. Devine of Alliance, Ohio, with $199,149, while the third bid, that of George S. Miller-Widener Co. of Medina, Ohio, was $199,882.

Exclusive of the grading, the road will cost $139,926, less than $20,000 a mile. The lowest bid represented a cost of $1.91 per square yard. During boom times, when the greatest amount of state road construction was carried out, the cost was often as high as $3.40 per square yard.

The contract will probably be awarded within a few days, 90 working days being allowed for completion of the contract.

Memorial Parade Horses Desired By Local Guard

Horses are in great demand by Troop F, the local unit of the Pennsylvania National Guard, for use in the Memorial Day parade next Saturday, it was reported today from the Neshannock avenue armory.

The west side stables of the outfit hold 31 horses that will be available for the parade. According to Capt. Bintrun, commander, the troop desires about 35 more animals in order that over 60 guardsmen may be able to lead the Memorial day parade this year.

Farmers and other owners or riding horses in this locality are urged to permit the guardsmen the use of their animals for the parade. The guardsmen will go for the horses, feed and shelter them during the celebration and then return them to their owners.

Owners of riding horses are asked to communicate with the local armory by telephone or letter.

Expect Agreement On Potter's Wages

Four Days Conference In Cleveland Is Coming To Close

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, O., May 23.—After four days of conference sessions between operators and workers in the Ceramic industries, a satisfactory settlement of the wage differences between the two groups was expected today.

Following a meeting yesterday, an optimistic statement was given out by W. E. Wells, of Newell, W. Va., chairman of the labor committee of the United States Pottery Association, that an amicable agreement could be anticipated today. No amplification of this message was given by Newell and it could not be learned whether it was meant operators had accepted a counter proposal submitted by union leaders after a proposed wage cut of 15 per cent was turned down.

The union delegation is led by James M. Duffy, of East Liverpool, who is president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters. Wages of 7,500 skilled ceramic workers are at stake in the present joint meetings, the third series arranged since last September.

At that time a two-year pact which regulated wages expired. Conditions of the pact were extended, however, pending the outcome of joint wage conferences. Efforts to make a satisfactory wage settlement in the two previous sessions were fruitless. At the present time workers in the ceramic field are employed under the continued wage scale fixed over two years ago.

Wells is the head of the manufacturers' conferees.

Flims Beaver Valley Firms By Slick Scheme, Local Merchants Informed

Word has been received by Manager Ray F. Hall of the New Castle Credit Exchange, of a slick scheme which has been worked on unsuspecting merchants of the Beaver Valley, by a bad check artist, who has appeared in that district periodically for the past two years.

The man is described as being about 40 years of age, dressed as a farmer, and gave the name of "Carl George," purporting to be from Darlington.

He first made inquiry of a firm as to the cost of materials for a chicken house, and asked if it would be possible to have it delivered to Darlington. After getting the price, he stated he would be back later.

The next day a telephone call was received from a man purporting to be "John Young of Black Hawk road," stating that he had purchased a cow from Carl George, and after some conversation, had said he would split the difference in price on another cow to be bought from George.

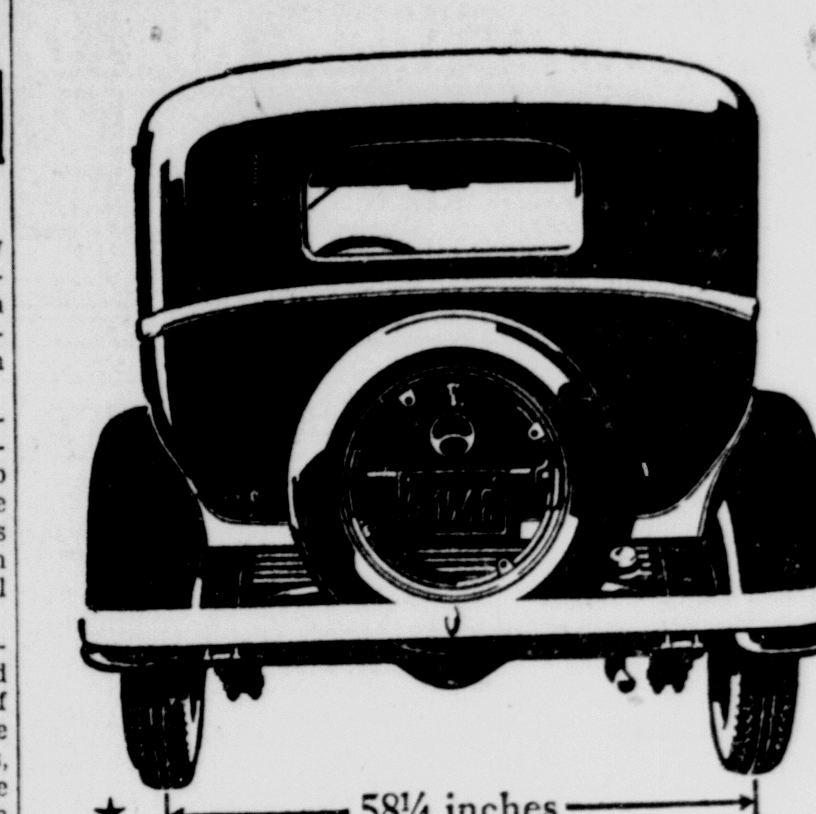

Only a short time afterwards, Mr. George appeared and stated that he wanted the material delivered and would pay for it with a check received from Mr. Young. After paying for the material, he received $19.50 in change from the check. The check was drawn on the State Bank of Beaver Falls, and when presented, it was found that Mr. Young had not purchased a cow from Mr. George, and that Mr. Young did not have an account in that bank.

He has also purchased poultry feed from Beaver Valley merchants, giving bad checks. He states that his truck is in a garage for minor repairs and that he will return later for the merchandise. He never appears of course, and leaves with the difference in change between the amount of the check and cost of the merchandise.

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Jantoni Joseph, 34, of Royersford, Montgomery county, was alive here today because he chose the wrong stretch of railroad track for his suicide plan.

Jantoni stretched himself out comfortably across the tracks and waited for death under the wheels of the 5 o'clock train from Philadelphia.

The train came thundering by—but it was on the wrong track. Jantoni explained to police who investigated his queer posture across the rails.

NASH

Air Commerce Regulations Require Twin-Ignition . . .

NASH PROVIDES IT FOR MOTORING

Public carriers of the air must now be powered by motors with two spark plugs per cylinder. Section 3 of "Airworthiness Requirements of Air Commerce Regulations for Engines and Propellers" says this: "Dual Ignition Systems, with at least two spark plugs per cylinder are required on all engines with a power rating of 40 horse power or more."

The same type of power now declared mandatory for commercial aircraft, Nash engineering has provided for more than two years in Nash motor cars!

There are two spark plugs, two firing points, per cylinder, to burn the gasoline more quickly, more completely, more efficiently.

The same motor, with Twin Ignition, instead of single ignition, develops 22% more horse power, 5 miles an hour more top speed, and delivers 2 extra miles per gallon of gasoline!

Just drive a Nash Eight-90 or Eight-80, and you will agree with Nash owners, that Twin Ignition is the most desirable motor car improvement in many years!

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Prices Higher In Today's Trading

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service
Financial Editor

NEW YORK, May 23.—With transactions the big board reaching a total of only 100,000 shares in the first half hour today, and price changes in the speculative leaders mostly fractional, outside interest in the stock market was close to the vanishing point. The railroad stocks carried to slightly higher levels the rallies started near the close of Friday's session; the New York City Traction stocks reached the best levels of the week and the Steels and Specialties picked up a little more of their lost ground. Unloading of the Electrical manufacturing, Foodstuffs and other well-known groups of stocks at the beginning of the second hour caused the usual week-end unsettlement in the list. Some improvement in retail trade and an increase in building construction and automobile buying was reported in the weekly trade reviews, but general industrial improvement is retarded by the low prices for manufactured goods of all kinds. Once again the stock market appeared to be in a sold-out condition, with no particular hurry being exhibited on the part of either speculative or investment buyers.

Macy, Woolworth, Gold Dust and other of the so-called mercantile stocks fell off 1 to 3 point on reports of narrowing profits on current sales of goods. The Chemical stocks were unable to rally from yesterday's slump and slightly lower prices were quoted for DuPont, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction and Union Carbide. Westinghouse settled down 1 1/2 to 60 1/2 where the bulk of the day's trading was conducted. United States Steel sold in good volume at 99, down a point from yesterday's close.

The Oils were the leaders in a moderate reaction as the short session dragged along. Professionals on the stock exchange floor grabbing for small profits sold the oils as the path of least resistance for prices seemed for the moment to be downward.

The April income statements of a number of prominent railroads, issued today, showed the need of an increase in the gross receipts of these carriers. Southern Pacific, for example, reported net April operating income at $663,828, against $2,445,160 in the same period last year and only $4,842 in April against $427,905 last year. The railroad stocks as a group were quiet, with prices holding fairly steady.

Brooklyn Manhattan Transit and other city traction stocks were in good form and bettered yesterday's best records. Automobile, Copper and other active groups were inclined to lower levels as the session drew to a close.

EX-PROSECUTOR HELD FOR MURDER

Telephoto by International

David Harris Clerk, young former deputy district attorney of Los Angeles, finds himself in a new courtroom role, that of defendant in a murder case. He must stand trial for the murder of Charles Crawford, political leader, and Herbert Spencer, magazine editor and former newspaper man. Clerk surrendered a day after the two were found shot to death in Crawford's office. He is believed to have thought an article printed in Spencer's political magazine unfavorable to his campaign for municipal judge and was pressed for funds. Clerk successfully prosecuted Daisy De Voe, secretary to Clara Bow, and aided in the prosecution of his former chief, Asa Keyes, for bribery. Photo shows Clerk being booked for murder by Walter F. Kelly (officer with eye shade).

IS CAPTURED IN HIS HOTEL ROOM

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 23.—William Hagen Harkins, 47, engaged a room at a fashionable Pittsburgh hotel last night, only to awake today in a central police station hotel faced with charges of forgery and jailbreaking. City detectives described their captor as one of the most notorious forgers in the country, with an even half dozen jail breaks charged against him.
Tipped that Harkins, reported to have victimized banks throughout the country to the tune of $150,000, was in the city, detectives quietly closed in on their quarry last night.
Police said his most recent escape was from Bridgeville, Pa., several months ago. Prior to that he had escaped from the county jail at St. Cloud, Minn., by sawing the bars of his cell. Harkins also broke jail from towns in the Middle West, according to private detectives who aided in his capture.
Harkins, police said, preyed chiefly on dealers in monuments with a "sob story" of wanting to purchase a tombstone for his mother's grave. Overcome with grief, Harkins would ask that he be allowed to sit at the dealer's desk. Later the dealer would discover blank checks and canceled vouchers were missing and the banks would find they had honored checks drawn to cleverly simulated signatures of the dealers, police said.

State Apportionment Under New Census Is Still Undecided

One Bill Would Add Mercer County To Beaver-Butler-Lawrence

Situation Is Muddled—May Not Be Decided In Final Week

(From News Bureau) (State Capital)
HARRISBURG, Pa., May 23.—With the General Assembly entering its last week on Monday, May 25th, congressional and legislative apportionment for Pennsylvania remain to be decided, and as the final sessions loom neither piece of legislation seems to have rosy prospects.

Congressional apportionment is mandatory under the recent act of Congress. Either that or all congressmen and national delegates will be elected at large in the next elections. While legislative apportionment is badly needed, this is purely a state matter.

Gerrymandering
There has been no congressional apportionment since 1910, although the federal constitution says that it must be made after every decennial census. Congress passed a reapportionment act in its last session, in which Pennsylvania loses two of its 36 congressmen.

Two bills are in the legislative hoppers. The bill in the Senate introduced by Senator John J. McClure of Delaware county, is fair insofar as the 26th district is concerned. This leaves Lawrence, Butler and Beaver together. In population the 26th is already over the proportionate number, 283,000 being the average population for a congressman. Lawrence, Beaver and Butler have some 326,000 people.

The House bill, introduced by Representative Robert J. Spangler of York county, is an imposition on the 26th district, in that it adds Mercer county with its 99,000 population, to the already existing 326,800 in the 26th district.

The McClure bill passed the Senate and was amended in the House to meet the Spangler bill. The Spangler bill passed the House and was amended in the Senate to meet the McClure bill. Hence a conference committee is inevitable and this committee will thresh out the question in the coming week.

Hurried Action
Because of the press of time, no intelligent reapportionment bill can be hoped for, and the result seems certain to be a bill which has a good chance of being vetoed by Governor Pinchot. If he does veto the bill it would still be possible to get apportionment in the threatened special session of next January or February. The governor of Missouri has already set a precedent of veto in congressional apportionment.

The matter of legislative apportionment is in even worse condition than the congressional division. Some weeks ago Representative Richards of Lawrence county presented a legislative apportionment bill at the request of the Pennsylvania Elections Association. This was based upon a basis of equitable representation and called for 209 members in the new division. Because of the increase in population, any legislative apportionment must give Pennsylvania 209 House members.

The Richards bill did not meet the approval of the organized politicians in Philadelphia and Allegheny county. Based as it was on

Noted Forger Is Under Arrest In Pittsburgh Today

William Hagen Harkins, 47, Notorious Forger And Jail Breaker Nabbed

IS CAPTURED IN HIS HOTEL ROOM

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 23.—William Hagen Harkins, 47, engaged a room at a fashionable Pittsburgh hotel last night, only to awake today in a central police station hotel faced with charges of forgery and jailbreaking. City detectives described their captor as one of the most notorious forgers in the country, with an even half dozen jail breaks charged against him.
Tipped that Harkins, reported to have victimized banks throughout the country to the tune of $150,000, was in the city, detectives quietly closed in on their quarry last night.
Police said his most recent escape was from Bridgeville, Pa., several months ago. Prior to that he had escaped from the county jail at St. Cloud, Minn., by sawing the bars of his cell. Harkins also broke jail from towns in the Middle West, according to private detectives who aided in his capture.
Harkins, police said, preyed chiefly on dealers in monuments with a "sob story" of wanting to purchase a tombstone for his mother's grave. Overcome with grief, Harkins would ask that he be allowed to sit at the dealer's desk. Later the dealer would discover blank checks and canceled vouchers were missing and the banks would find they had honored checks drawn to cleverly simulated signatures of the dealers, police said.

Rain Stops Paving Work In Fairmont

Rain of last night caused a cessation of paving in Fairmont avenue, but if the weather becomes good tomorrow it is probable that a bright sun will dry up the water in the graded thoroughfare and paving will be resumed Monday.

You're the JUDGE

The court held with Sam. The judges reasoned thus: The rule is that when money is to be paid after something is to be done, the person who failed to do his share has no basis for demanding the money. Whether Zeke refused to deliver the deed or merely neglected to do so doesn't matter. By his own agreement the deed must be delivered before the second payment is due.

Small Fortune Is Cost of a Bow to Royalty

Months of Preparation and Expenditure of Thousands of Dollars Ere Royal Seal Emblazons Social Prestige of Ambitious "Deb"

Behind the glitter and pomp attendant upon a presentation at Buckingham Palace there is the very real question of dollars and cents. With court gowns running into four figures besides other no less important incidentals, it is obvious that only the very wealthy can aspire to the honor of reaching the social heights by exchanging a dress for a royal nod. It is estimated that the four courts scheduled for this season will put three millions of dollars into the pockets of English tradespeople, who are unanimous in their agreement that the monarch and her court are the best spenders. After a review of the whole situation one comes to the conclusion that, from the business man's viewpoint, it pays to have a king.

LONDON, May 23.—A breathless hush descends upon the thronged room in Buckingham Palace. Eager debutantes cease their excited chatter, suave courtiers postpone for the nonce the flowery compliment they were about to pay to the charming companions of the moment, even stately dowagers freeze into immobility lest the rustle of their court finery create a sacrilegious whisper.

Suddenly the silence is shattered by a ringing fanfare of silver trumpets and down the long corridor that leads from the state apartments come their Majesties, King George and Queen Mary of England.

The monarch is dressed in the full uniform of a field marshal of a British Army, his breast ablaze with military decorations and orders. The Queen wears a regal gown of cloth-of-gold, illuminated with the famous state diamonds. Preceded by court ushers the royal party makes its way to the throne where they take the throne. When the King and Queen have seated themselves, then, and not till then, do the other occupants of the throne room relax.

Slight Royal Nod
Then comes the passage before the throne by the debutantes and others fortunate enough to win presentation. As each one approaches, makes her curtsy—which their majesties acknowledge with a smiling nod or maybe a few words—and backs from the royal presence, an audible sigh is automatically affixed for all time upon her social status.

That, briefly, is the ceremony of a presentation at court, the dream of society buds all over the world. And the cost? Trifling, when compared to the prestige acquired by the outlay.

It is estimated that it costs a debutante at least $2,000 to make her bow at Buckingham Palace and more often than not the figure is twice that amount. The bill for the court gown alone may be anything from $215 to $700 and that is without the expensive trimmings of seed pearls or rare old lace essential to the outfit. According to court dressmakers $1,500 for an embroidered gown is commonplace, and they say, American women will have only the best.

The four courts to be held this season (the first of which was on May 19, and the last will be on June 10) will put something like three million dollars in the pockets of English tradespeople, as the great majority of foreign debts do all their shopping for the occasion in the English capital.

Americans Presented
Among the Americans who made their bow at the first court this year were: Miss Bertha Potter Palmer, of Chicago; Miss Barbara Hutton, of New York; Miss Virginia Dawes; Miss Margaret Duane, of Pennsylvania; Miss Adele Jahnecks, of Louisiana; and Miss Virginia Penn, of No. Carolina.

More than 1,200 were received by the King and Queen at the first court and it is only a matter of simple arithmetic to compute how much British business has benefited by the royal function. It can readily be seen that only the very wealthy can afford to launch their offspring on the social sea via the court slipway. But there is always the consolation that one may be presented at court in one's own home town at the trifling cost of $5 by the simple expedient of parking one's automobile in front of a fire plug.

State Troopers Shy At Job Of Killing Horse

Veteran State Trooper Horse Ordered Shot, But No One Wants Job

HORSE IS LAME, RESULT OF KICK

(International News Service)
LANCASTER, Pa., May 22.—State troopers at the Conestoga sub-station near her go glumly about their posts.
For "Clip" is doomed to die. And the troopers don't like to think of it. A ranking veteran of the service is "Clip." Characterized by troopers on the post as "the finest horse a state policeman ever rode" he has been with the service 15 years. He was transferred to the Conestoga station, one of the few mounted posts left, as a reward for faithful service.

Lame Result Of Kick
Then "Charlie," show horse of Troop C, kicked "Clip" in the left hind quarters. The injury grew worse. "Clip" grew lame. Inevitable state police regulations doomed him to die by a bullet from a trooper's gun.

The orders for "Clip's" execution are expected to arrive at the station within a week. And the troopers there are looking for someone to act as executioner. Corporal Paul Wagner, in charge of the station and whose pet "Clip" was, can't do it. Neither can Troopers Lucas and Dooner. They think too much of "Clip."

But the pride of Troop C will not be forgotten. Though he is shot, the detail at the station will hold a funeral for him and "Clip" the faithful will be buried with full military honors.

Dinner Stories

VERY FAMILIAR
He had proposed. She tossed her head haughtily.

"You!" came her scornful reply. "You want to marry me?"
"Yes," murmured the lover.
"But, my dear boy," she went on, "you've only known me three days."
"Oh, much longer than that, really!" he said. "I've been two years in the bank where your father has his account."

VERY GOOD
"Is he a good watchdog?"
"Rather. If you hear a suspicious noise at night, you have only to wake him and he begins to bark."

The average man is a good nurse when it comes to coddling imaginary wrongs.
